Tough Convicts End Revolt

President Declares Arms Race "Stupid"

Wenzell's Role In Dixon-Yates Defended By Ike

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—President Eisenhower today defended the part played by Adolphe H. Wenzell in development of the Dixon-Yates power contract — a contract the President now says he will cancel if it is feasible for Memphis to build its own generating plant.

Asked at his news conference whether he regarded Wenzell's role as proper, the President said: "Indeed, yes."

Some members of Congress have raised the roof because, they said, Wenzell served as consultant to the Budget Bureau on the Dixon-Yates plan when he was vice president of the First Boston Corp., and later that firm became fiscal agent for the private power syndicate.

Misuse Of FBI Charged

The White House has contended that Wenzell did not influence negotiations for the contract, which has been fought over bitterly in Congress for more than a year.

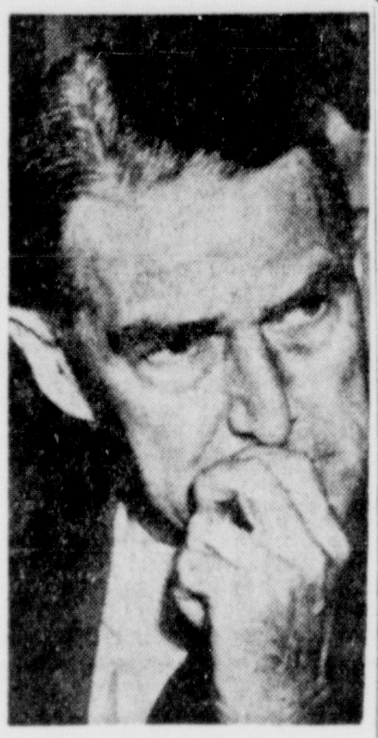
The controversy took a new turn today with a charge by Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn), that the Eisenhower administration has made "a shocking misuse of the FBI" by assigning FBI agents to check on Memphis' plans to build a municipal power plant.

"Is there no limit to which this politically minded administration will go in order to carry water for the private power interests?" Kefauver asked in a statement.

Victory For Democrats

It now looks, though, as if Democrats have won their long battle against the plan to have the Dixon-Yates interests erect a 107-million-dollar power plant at West Memphis, Ark., and furnish electricity to the lines of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Eisenhower told his news conference he will cancel the Dixon-Yates contract if "the complete feasibility" of the Memphis municipal project is established. He estimated this might take two weeks.



DEFENDED BY IKE — Adolphe Wenzell takes the witness chair yesterday before a Senate committee during its probe of circumstances surrounding financing behind the Dixon-Yates power contract. President Eisenhower yesterday defended Wenzell's role in development of the contract. Some legislators were up in arms because Wenzell served as consultant to the Budget Bureau on the Dixon-Yates plan when he was vice president of the First Boston Corp., and later that firm became fiscal agent for the private power syndicate. Big 4 Seen Discussing Limitation

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today it is "perfectly stupid" for the world to spend so much on arms.

He added that the question of disarmament may come up at the Big Four meeting, at least to the extent of trying to find the best way to approach it.

He said the top level conference itself would not get down to "substantive problems," then added:

"But this question might come up: Where would we find the best group, the best channel or the best method in which to place this problem?"

It all boils down to the question of international inspection of armaments production, Eisenhower said, and he added with great seriousness:

"We earnestly want to find some answer to this complicated question . . . it is perfectly stupid for the world to continue to put so much in these agencies and instrumentalities that cost us so much, and if we don't have this war, do us so little good."

Eisenhower discussed the nation's problems, foreign and domestic, in a news conference that was marked also by his wearing a vest on one of the hottest days of the summer.

Variety Of Questions

He didn't seem to mind the heat any more than a variety of questions flung at him on everything from the Dixon-Yates power contract to his political plans for 1956.

On Dixon-Yates, he said he was delighted that the city of Memphis is planning to build its own power plant, that "this is in accordance with the philosophy in which I believe."

On the question of the 1946 campaign, the President was told that Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) told a July 4 audience that Eisenhower could not refuse to run.

"Can you?" the reporter asked directly.

"Well," Eisenhower replied with a laugh, "for myself I don't believe that I can recall that I ever said what anyone else could or could not do; and I think that is a decision I have to reach for myself sometime."

Soviet Strength Recognized

Much of the conference was taken up with the President's forthcoming meeting at Geneva, beginning July 18, with leaders of Russia, Great Britain and France.

Eisenhower said no one in this government has ever said that the Russians would be negotiating, in the Big Four talks, on any basis of weakness.

"Of course, we recognize their great military strength in the world," he said.

This appeared to be a reply to a denial by Russia's Communist party chief, Nikita S. Khrushchev, that the Russians will come to the conference in a weak position. Khrushchev also said that unless the West treats Russia as an equal nothing can come of the conference.

25% Of China's '55 Budget Will Go For Defense

TOKYO, July 6 (AP)—Red China will spend a fourth of its 1955 budget on defense, Vice Premier Li Hsien Nien, minister of finance, told the second National People's Congress today.

The expenditure is necessary, Peiping radio quoted the minister, because "the imperialists were still encircling China and she had to protect her independence and national construction, liberate Taiwan (Formosa) and safeguard her sovereignty and territorial integrity."

The Chinese Communists have not yet "liberated" Formosa, headquarters island of the Chinese Nationalists, but continue to say that they will someday.

The broadcast gave no breakdown or amplification on defense expenditures.

Li Hsien Nien listed total revenue in the 1955 national budget at 31,192,420,000 yuan. There is no official exchange rate between the Communist yuan and the U. S. dollar, but the latest unofficial figure is one yuan to 40 U. S. cents. Total revenue would be the equivalent of $12,476,968,000, unofficially.

He set expenditures at $11,894,-688,000, leaving a budget surplus of $582,280,000.

The keynote of the budget, he said, is "to increase production and practice economy."

The foreign minister said 60.67 per cent of China's 1955 budget would go toward economic construction and social, cultural and educational services.

Biggest Troop Airlift Begins

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky., July 6 (AP)—History's biggest troop airlift — the "swapping" of more than 7,000 army troops between the United States and Japan — gets under way here tomorrow.

The 18th Air Force, performing the massive maneuver, calls it "The Airlift of the Angels and the Devils."

Huge C124 transports of the 18th will carry 3,900 paratroopers of the Army's 508th Regimental Combat Team from Ft. Campbell to Ashiya Air Base, Japan. The 508th calls itself "The Red Devils."

From Japan the same planes will fly more than 3,100 troopers of the 187th Regimental Combat Team to Ft. Bragg, N. C. The 187th is known as "The Angels from Hell."

This will be the Army's first airlift exchange of major combat units under "Operation Gyroscope," the continuing simultaneous exchange of large military groups.

"This will be the biggest troop airlift in military history," said the 18th AF, in a news release. "More than 63 million passenger miles will be flown."

Air Force headquarters in Washington was unable to provide a handy basis for comparison with other major air movements, such as the famed Berlin and Korean airlifts. In both of these projects, however, there was a greater emphasis on cargo, so that figures would be deceptive.

Execution Of Death Row Author Stayed 6th Time

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Caryl Chessman, death cell author, won his sixth reprieve from San Quentin's gas chamber today.

Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark stayed execution to allow the book-writing sex terrorist another day in court.

Chessman had been scheduled to die in the California penitentiary July 15.

The stay gives him at least a few more months to live. A court spokesman said it will hold until all the justices have a chance to act on Chessman's plea for a review of his attempted rape-kidnaping conviction. The court does not reconvene until October.

On a number of previous occasions the high court has ruled against Chessman in one way or another.

Lawyers for the author of "Cell 2455, Death Row" have questioned whether the transcript of his trial, the record used in appeal, is really authentic. They attacked it on grounds the original court reporter died before transcribing all his notes. The reporter wrote in an old style shorthand, and some of his notings never were deciphered.

Chessman's book, recently the subject of a movie, was written in the death house cell he has occupied for seven years. In it he lays most of his troubles to society itself.

He has another book in the works. Entitled "Trial by Ordeal," it is due to come out this month against a background of mystery.

Adlai Charges Ike 'Reneges' On School Aid

Nothing Being Done To Fulfill Promise Stevenson Asserts

CHICAGO, July 6 (AP) — Adlai Stevenson, former Democratic presidential nominee, tonight attacked President Eisenhower's program of school aid before an audience of school teachers.

Stevenson, in a speech prepared for the National Education Assn. convention and broadcast over the CBS radio and tv networks, quoted President Eisenhower as saying just after he assumed office: "Our school system demands some prompt effective help."

"Yet, today," said Stevenson, "two and one - half years later, when this need has become acutely critical, nothing has been done. Instead of 'prompt effective help,' we await a conference on education to be held at the White House next fall.

"Inadequate Excuse"

"Now a conference is fine," said Stevenson, "and it will dramatize the great significance of our educational system and its critical deficiencies, but it seems to me a pitifully inadequate excuse for years of doing absolutely nothing about America's No. 1 domestic need—schools and teachers."

Stevenson referred to the White House conference on education, scheduled for this fall, a meeting of some 2,000 educators of various creeds, races, occupations and geographical locations who will make recommendations on school problems.

The former Illinois governor said the President recommended to Congress last February that it pass legislation for seven billion dollars worth of new schools.

"But to get them," said Stevenson, the President "recommended that Congress pass not a law but a miracle."

School-Road Comparison

"For meeting this seven billion-dollar need, the President proposed grants of 66 millions a year for three years. This is 33 cents a year to meet every 35 dollars of admitted present, crying need."

Stevenson termed it "interesting if disheartening to reflect that while proposing an effective grant of only 66 million dollars a year for three years for school construction aid, the President at the same time proposed a federal grant for highway construction aid —mostly on a matching basis—of 3 billion dollars every year for the next 10 years. This is 45 dollars of federal funds for highways to every dollar for schools.

Army Asks 10,000 September Draftees

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—The Army today issued a draft call for 10,000 men in September.

This is the same quota called for the previous four months.

The new call brings to 1,938,430 the total of men drafted or earmarked for induction since the resumption of Selective Service in September 1950.

Prison Rebels Win Concessions

Ringleaders of the Washington State Prison revolt parley with state and penitentiary officials just before winning concessions and releasing hostages. From left, Harold D. Goodwin and James Frasier, convict ringleaders, talk to W. V. Four Prisoner Treaties Given Senate Approval

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP) — The Senate today approved 77-0 four treaties designed to establish a pattern of decent international conduct toward prisoners of war and civilians captured by an enemy.

The pacts, already ratified by the Soviet Union and 47 other nations, were negotiated at Geneva in 1949.

In a brief Senate discussion, Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California hit at Russia for "well-substantiated" reports that "thousands" of German and Japanese prisoners of war taken during World War II are still held as "slave labor" in Russia.

Knowland said no one could know "if the Soviet Union will comply" with terms of the new treaties on such matters as quick repatriation of prisoners after the end of hostilities. Knowland, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which reported the treaties to the Senate, said they contain provisions which "any civilized nation should be glad" to comply with.

Sen. Barkley (D-Ky), also a committeeman, told the Senate the treaties provide for the kind of "humane practices the United States has followed over a long period of time."

The treaties deal separately with the status of prisoners of war, civilian prisoners, wounded and sick military personnel, and sick and ship wrecked members of the armed services at sea.

Russia To Open Gate To Tourists

MOSCOW, July 6 (AP)—The Kremlin has decided to throw open the borders of the Soviet Union to tourist travel.

For the first time since before World War II, a number of Soviet cities will be open to American and other tourists in what apparently will be a big effort to encourage foreign travelers.

This move has long been expected. Since the death of Stalin, preparations appear to have been under way to make certain selected areas of the Soviet Union ready for tourism. Many news correspondents and specially invited delegations of foreigners already have covered cities of Soviet Central Asia, the Caucasus, the Ukraine and the Central Russian Republic.

The aim of the Soviet government appears to be to contribute to its current campaign of slackening international tensions.

A-Bomb Scientist Wins Passport Fight

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP) — The State Department, after eight years of refusal, has decided to issue a passport to Dr. Martin D. Kamen, A-bomb scientist whom the department once linked to communism.

The decision was disclosed today before Judge Richmond B. Keech, in U. S. District Court by Asst. U. S. Atty. Joseph Rafferty.

Pending before Keech is a suit by Kamen to have the court void as arbitrary the department's past refusals.

Kamen is teaching at Washington University in St. Louis. In 1947 his passport for travel in France and Israel was seized by State Department agents while it was in the hands of a travel agency.

Two Boys Riding Horse Rob Bus

DETROIT, July 6 (AP)—Two desperadoes on horseback held up a coach today and looted it of silver before galloping off.

A posse swung into action and soon after corraled the bandits — one boy 16 and the other 13 — riding a black and white pinto pony. Police said they had robbed a city bus, parked while the driver got coffee, of $14 in nickels and dimes.

The boys are lodged in the Wayne County Juvenile Home while police investigate where they got the pony and $50 hidden in the 16-year-old's shoe.

Segni Becomes Italian Premier

ROME, July 6 (AP) — Italy's new pro-West, democratic Center Coalition government was sworn into office tonight, ending a 14-day political crisis.

Premier Antonio Segni, Leftist Christian Democrat and author of Italy's land reform program, led his Cabinet to the Quirinale Palace for the ceremony before President Giovanni Gronchi.

The new government is Italy's 16th since Ivanboe Bonomi formed the first postarmistice Cabinet June 18, 1944. Segni is Italy's seventh Premier since that date.

He succeeds Mario Scelba; who resigned June 22 after opposition developed against him within the ranks of his own Christian Democrat party.

Segni's government — with the same political composition as Sceba's defunct Cabinet — faces its first major test Wednesday, July 13. That day it goes before Parliament for the required vote of confidence.

News Of Split Sends GM Stock Soaring

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—General Motors stock rode to record highs on the New York Stock Exchange today on the news that it would triple its outstanding common shares.

In an exciting day, GM rose $14.37 a share to close at $127.75 on a turnover of 167,100 shares, making it the day's most active stock.

The price jump, figured on the basis of nearly 93 million shares outstanding — greatest number of any American corporation — represented a rise in market value of nearly $1,336,410,000.

This was glad tidings for the 482,124 common stockholders who are the principal owners of the five billion dollar industrial giant which is the world's biggest supplier of automobiles.

They will be asked to approve the directors' recommendation for a stock split at a special meeting called for Sept. 23.

Air Derby Completed

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 6 (AP)—The 2,800-mile "Powder Puff" flying derby from Long Beach, Cal., to Springfield ended tonight with 43 of the 47 starting planes completing the long run.

The winners will not be known, however, until tomorrow as handicaps were placed on each type of plane.

Studebaker-Packard Layoff Affects 1,700

SOUTH BEND, Ind., July 6 (AP)—Approximately 1,700 hourly rated workers will be laid off indefinitely at the Studebaker-Packard Corp. plant here.

Clarence Smith, manager at the Studebaker plant, announced today the layoff results from the recent installation of new work standards which reduced the need for man power. The layoff will reduce the work force to 9,600.

Mansfield Raps Aid "Maneuver" By Defense Dept.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) today accused the Defense Department of a "deliberate shortcut" of a congressional edict on foreign aid spending.

Mansfield also said he has written Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson demanding an explanation of "conflicting testimony" to Senate and House committees on amounts of foreign military aid money voted in past years and still not obligated for spending.

An answer to the senator, it was understood, was on its way to Mansfield's office but its contents were not immediately disclosed.

Mansfield, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the Pentagon "obligated" 575 million dollars of past military aid funds on the very last day of the past fiscal year—June 30.

This "bookkeeping transaction," he said, has the effect of avoiding a specific prohibition written into the new foreign aid measure by both the Senate and the House.

Both branches inserted language forbidding more than 200 million dollars of previously - voted aid funds from being carried over into the new fiscal year, which started last Friday.

The aim of the prohibition, Mansfield said, was to compel the Eisenhower administration to limit its spending to money included in the new aid bill, plus the 200-million-dollar carryover allowed. But the senator said the Defense Department, by its "maneuver," kept 575 millions of past aid funds for future spending.

Mansfield planned to carry his fight against the practice of last-second obligation of funds to the Senate floor in a speech tomorrow.

Meanwhile, a Senate-House conference committee reached agreement on a $3,285,000,000 aid authorization bill for the new fiscal year. The Senate and House are expected to act on it tomorrow.

N. Y. Justice Is Negro

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—Harold A. Stevens today was sworn in as the first Negro justice ever to sit on the State Supreme Court. He was appointed earlier in the day by Gov. Averell Harriman.

Jewish Couple Wins Delay Of Order To Give Up Child

BROOKLINE, Mass., July 6 (AP)—A Jewish couple, ordered under threat of arrest to give up a 4-year-old foster daughter whose mother is a Catholic, gained a two weeks delay today in the Massachusetts Supreme Court.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin B. Ellis, whose adoption petition was nullified in 1953, have engaged in a long legal battle to keep the child, Hildy McCoy, whom they have had since she was 10 days old.

Today their lawyer, James Zisman, went before Supreme Court Judge Raymond S. Wilkins and argued for a review of the Norfolk Probate Court proceedings—in which the Ellises were ordered to surrender the child or face arrest.

Judge Wilkins reserved decision but gave attorneys for the Commonwealth two weeks to file answers to Zisman's contentions.

The Ellises' lawyer said their arrest without a hearing would be a "deprivation of their fundamental rights."

The law on which the Probate Court action was taken says that, where practicable, children should be given for adoptions to families of the same religious faith. Hildy's mother says she wants the child brought up in a Catholic home.

Zisman said he does not know the whereabouts of the Ellises whose home is in Brookline. "He calls me," the lawyer explained. He added that Mrs. Ellis is suffering from "a severe nervous condition."

However, the New York Post said Ellis had told its Boston correspondent in a telephone interview: "I am prepared to go to jail."

Inmates Free Hostages, Win Concessions

Seized Men Unhurt But Shaken; 9-Point Agreement Signed

WALLA WALLA, Wash., July 6 (AP)—Hardened Washington State Prison convicts freed their nine hostages suddenly and dramatically today and ended a 26-hour revolt which won for them major concessions.

Appearing suddenly from the big prison's control center, Associate Warden Ted Bezzerides walked with an escort of convicts to the prison's Administration Building and was followed quickly by eight other hostages.

None of the officials or guards who were seized in a sudden, violent revolt against prison conditions at 9:46 a.m., yesterday was harmed. Most appeared shaken, however.

"I was scared. They were all scared," said Bezzerides. "Any man would be a fool in such a situation to say he wasn't scared."

Nine-Point Agreement

The sudden end to the uprising, spearheaded by 33 men described as among the toughest of the 1,700 inmates at the state's only prison, followed a series of conferences between five revolt leaders and Dr. Thomas Harris, state director of institutions.

Harris signed a nine point agreement, the hostages were released and prison authorities moved to reassume control of the institution.

Inmates were given until 5 a.m. Thursday to clean up their cells and turn over their knives to officials. Guards and state patrolmen had been ordered to shake down every cell in the prison.

Chief among the concessions made by Dr. Harris was one in which he said he would do everything in his power to assure that no reprisals would be taken against any of the convicts.

Dr. Harris took note, however, that a new state law makes rioting or the holding of hostages in a prison a felony.

Inmate Council Planned

He also agreed to establish an inmate council and to free immediately from isolation and segregation wards the men held there. It was from this segregation ward, deep inside the prison, that the revolt started.

Another major demand which Harris agreed to take up with Gov. Arthur B. Langlie was for a complete study of the Board of Prison Terms and Paroles and the removal of certain members if necessary. Harris said it was not within his authority to grant such a demand.

The convicts had complained that the board when fixing sentences frequently came closer to the maximum than the minimum sentence allowed by law.

Divorcee Slain By Ex-Houseboy

LOS ANGELES, July 6 (AP)—A law student today told police he killed a wealthy young society divorcee because she not only spurned him but fell asleep as he pleaded his love for her.

After 14 hours of questioning, John Russell Crooker Jr., 31, broke down and sobbed out a story of stabbing and strangling Mrs. Norma McCauley, 33, mother of three children, ex-wife of a World War II ace and daughter of a millionaire contractor.

Crooker was arrested after police found what they termed "intellectual love letters" from him in the woman's home.

Sgt. Jack Hooper said Crooker told investigators he had formerly worked as a houseboy for Mrs. McCauley, later had dated her and that they broke up because of a lover's quarrel. Crooker said he wanted to talk to her alone so went to the home on Independence Day and hid in a clothes closet. He continued:

"About midnight Norma came home and went into a bedroom. I followed. We talked about an hour, with my trying to get her to marry me. She either went to sleep or pretended to sleep on the chaise lounge.

"When I tried to wake her up to continue our talks, I could not arouse her and this incensed me. I started to choke her and shake her with both hands and she started to scream."

Crooker said he then stabbed the woman and knotted her stole around her neck and "held it with both hands until I was sure she was dead."

House Group Votes New Social Security Benefits

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee voted tonight for new social security benefits for women aged 62-65 and disabled workers over 50.

The committee also decided to bring within the Social Security System such professional workers, as lawyers and dentists, and to include several other groups not now covered.

Chairman Cooper (D-Tenn) outlined the plan, which was sponsored by the Democratic majority. He said he did not hear any "substantial disagreement" when the committee adopted the proposal on a voice vote.

The measure would:

1. Lower from 65 to 62 the age at which women can become eligible for social security benefits.

2. Provide for payments to disabled workers under the system after age 50, instead of 65.

3. Permit continuation of payments to children past the age of 18 if they are disabled.

To pay for these benefits, which would become effective on Jan. 1, 1956, the social security tax rate would be boosted 1 per centage point on that date.

That would hike the present social security payroll levy of 2 per cent each on employe and employer to 2½ per cent each as of Jan. 1, or a total rise of from 4 to 5 per cent.

Cooper said he hopes for House action before this session's end.

Whether the bill can clear the Senate this year remains doubtful, however.

Health Service Plans Vaccine Tabulation

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—The Public Health Service plans to give a picture of "where we are and where we are going" in the matter of polio vaccine supply, a spokesman said today.

He told a reporter the service is assembling an "accurate tabulation" of vaccine made available since April 1, together with how much vaccine is now on hand in manufacturing plants but not yet cleared for distribution.

And he added that the announcement, which may come tomorrow, would attempt to make "an accurate forecast of available supply for the rest of the summer."

Benjamin Franklin, as Richard Saunders, started "Poor Richard's Almanac" in 1732.

Kohler, Fearing Violence, Won't Unload Vessel

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., July 6 (AP)—Kohler Co. officials said today they would not try to remove the clay cargo from a docked freighter because of the risk of mob opposition that has already flared into violence. A company statesman said the decision was taken "because of the danger of the lives of employes of the Kohler Co. and the unloading contractor."

The clay is aboard the Norwegian freighter M. E. Fossum out of Skien, Norway, and was picked up at Fowley, England, consigned to the Kohler Co., manufacturers of plumbing ware. The UAW-CIO has waged a 15 month long strike against the company over the principal issue of union security. An NLRB hearing is in recess until July 20.

The freighter docked yesterday and when Kohler equipment was moved to the docks to unload the clay, a mob estimated as reaching 1,000 at times, gathered and milled around the area.

The mob rocked a car occupied by a couple of company officials; beat up one nonstirikin worker; turned over the car and broke the house windows of another; and destroyed several pieces of unloading equipment.

Major, Former POW, Faces Court-Martial

FT. MEADE, Md., July 6 (AP)—Maj. Ronald E. Alley, 34-year-old artillery officer from Bar Harbor, Maine, will face a court martial Aug. 8, on charges of cooperating with the enemy and informing on fellow prisoners while himself a captive of Chinese Communists in North Korea.

Headquarters of 2nd Army here announced the tentative date for start of the court martial today after formalization of charges brought against Maj. Alley last March 11.

He is accused of seven specific offenses violating two articles of war and one other military law.

Lt. Gen. Floyd L. Parks, 2nd Army commander, approved initiation of court martial proceedings and set the date.

Maj. Alley, a veteran of more than 14 years in the Army and an officer since 1943, has been suffering with tuberculosis since he was freed from the prison camp and repatriated in "Big Switch," the exchange of prisoners in August, 1953, following the truce in Korea.

U. S. Residence Granted Cleric Without Ike's OK

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Without the approval of President Eisenhower, the privilege of living permanently in the United States was granted today to a priest who left the Roman Catholic Church, became a Baptist minister and is married to an American school teacher.

Aniceto Mario Sparagna, 42, who came from Italy and now lives in Vincentown, N. J. is the central figure in this unusual situation.

The White House announced a bill granting permanent residence to the clergyman became law at midnight without the President's signature. A bill becomes law if the President fails either to sign it or veto it within 10 days.

Britain, France Offer Peace Plan

STRASBOURG, France, July 6 (AP) — British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay today outlined a formula for European coexistence, bringing the Eastern states and a reunified Germany into a revamped Council of Europe.

Macmillan and Pinay spoke to the European Consultative Assembly, the council's lower house which acts as Western Europe's official forum.

Macmillan urged changes in the council's statute to open its doors to all European states. Member-states now are required to have a Western sort of parliamentary democracy and a government which respects fundamental human rights.

Macmillan did not mention any particular nation, but a British delegate said he meant Yugoslavia in particular, and the present Soviet satellites in general.

Macmillan described the council's membership requirements as possibly "too onerous," and said council members cannot have "precisely the same purposes or policies."

Ground Swallows Hose For Newsman

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—A do-it-yourself fan joined the disappearing hose sect today. He made the ground swallow five feet of garden hose, just like out in California and other places.

It was a business proposition with Jeffrey Roche, reporter for the New York Journal-American. His editor told him: "Don't fail me."

Roche didn't. He said he made five feet of borrowed (he preferred the word, "donated") plastic hose and nozzle burrow out of sight into a sandy garden in near by Atlantic Beach, N. Y.

A two-inch hole was dug in the topsoil and the nozzle was nuzzled into it.

"I turned on the water," Roche continued. "The hose started to tunnel itself into the ground.

"We watched five feet of it vanish and then turned off the water. The hose stopped moving. Not only stopped moving, it refused to budge."

President Calls For Settlement Of Transit Tieup

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—President Eisenhower today urged "practically continuous negotiations" to settle Washington's transit strike, which he said is interfering with the government's business.

The strike of Capital street car and bus drivers for higher wages is now in its sixth day, with no signs of a settlement in sight.

Downtown Washington is packed with automobiles, hundreds of them parked on the empty street car tracks, but the working population seems to have solved the transportation problem and there were few traffic jams today.

A Senate subcommittee has been seeking to subpoena Louis Wolfson, board chairman of the Capital Transit Co., but the financier sent word today that he will appear voluntarily if needed for testimony.

Sen. Morse (D-Ore) is moving to cancel the company's operating franchise, and the subcommittee will hold a hearing on the question tomorrow. Morse wants to hear Wolfson's side of the case.

Mental Patient Dies In Baltimore Plunge

BALTIMORE, July 6 (AP)—A 31-year-old woman, a mental hospital patient, plunged to her death today from a fourth floor window of a department store on one of Baltimore's busiest downtown corners.

Police identified the woman as Mrs. Phyllis Webster, of Baltimore County. Her husband, Wilbur, made the identification.

Police, checking hospitals in the area after recognizing labels in her clothing as the types used in institutions, learned Mrs. Webster was a patient at Sheppard Pratt Hospital, out on her regular Wednesday release day.

The longest marked footpath in the world is the Appalachian trail, which runs from Mount Katahdin, Me., to Mount Oglethorpe, in Georgia, a distance of 2,050 miles.

Mental Hospital Officials Accused Of Neglect, Waste

BALTIMORE, July 6 (AP)—Charges of neglect of patients, arbitrary rule, waste and mismanagement were hurled at the administration of Maryland's mental hospitals under Dr. Clifton T. Perkins today by the director of a citizens' group.

The charges were made at a meeting of the Legislative Council by Mrs. Dorothy B. Davis, executive director of Peoples Union, Inc.

The organization is described as one dedicated to improved civic conditions.

Mrs. Davis complained that the "unhindered, complete and unadvised authority" of Dr. Perkins over the state's mental hygiene system. Dr. Perkins is Maryland's mental hygiene commissioner.

She protested that no other large state agency has such "arbitrary one-man rule" without the curbing influence of an advisory board.

As an example of what she called waste and poor judgment in the administration at Rosewood, mental institution for Children, Mrs. Davis mentioned a swimming pool she said was 10 feet deep and a large orchestra pit.

She also claimed hundreds of pairs of shoes, still wearable, were slated for discard and burning along with other wearing apparel.

She criticized "imports" of personnel from Massachusetts, where Perkins was formerly employed, to replace Maryland hospital workers.

As corrective measures, the Baltimore woman suggested establishment of a board of mental hygiene and board for the individual institutions. She also suggested that capital improvements money be cut off from the department until funds now available are used for improving the conditions of patients.

Among witnesses produced by Mrs. Davis was William J. Murray, the father of a girl who was a patient at Rosewood.

He testified he found his daughter on a visit June 26 with a lacerated and ulcerated leg that had not been treated.

About 34 per cent of the spectacles worn in the United States are bifocals or trifocals.

McKeldin Urges Budget Economy

BALTIMORE, July 6 (AP) — The heads of state agencies have been told by Gov. McKeldin to compile their 1957 fiscal year budgets "with economy uppermost in your thinking."

The governor made his plea for less spending in a letter to state officials.

"I am sure that examinations of methods and procedures in various departments will reveal avenues to economy, and I strongly urge that those avenues be thoroughly explored," said the governor

Though the 1956 budget has been in effect less than a week, State department heads have only until Sept. 1 to submit their requests for fiscal 1957.

In his economy plea, the governor pointed to the fact that certain expenses will soar simply because of rapidly increasing population.

Prompt Work Saved Johnson, Friend Says

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Only prompt work by "some very excellent doctors" saved the life of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) after a heart attack, a physician friend of the senator said today.

And it may be that Johnson should not again engage in arduous political campaigning, said Dr. James C. Cain of the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn.

Cain is a personal friend of the Senate's Democratic floor leader.

Johnson is now "progressing satisfactorily," though still on the serious list at Bethesda Naval Medical Center.

Woman's Bid For License Rejected By Liquor Board

For reasons cited in a previous case involving the Club 88, the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners has refused a license applicant for the same property on Malamphy's beach on Christie Road.

A hearing on a remonstrance filed by certain Christie Road residents was held recently and the board, Walter C. Capper, chairman, Stanley Hamilton and Howard Vandegrift handed down the following opinion.

"The applicant in this case, Virginia L. Haller, now resides with her husband at 472 Goethe Street, Cumberland. They desire a beer license near the end of the Malamphy property bordering on Evitts Creek and opposite the golf course of the Cumberland Country Club. Some years ago Mr. Malamphy had a license for intoxicating beverages on these premises but since he went out of business there has been no license for any kind of intoxicating beverages here.

"A club of colored people, known as the Club 88, applied for an alcoholic beverage license at this place in 1953 and after a long and careful hearing the license was rejected and an appeal to the Circuit Court for Allegany County, the action of the board was sustained.

"The board has carefully considered the testimony taken in this case. The remonstrants complained that they already have the Cumberland Country Club and Minke's swimming pool in the vicinity and there is considerable congestion on these roads from these sources and others, and quite a few accidents have happened on these roads. The road to the Cumberland Country Club, from its junction with the road to Minke's is narrow and winding as it approaches the site of the proposed location. It is steep, narrow and on the side of a bank which is constantly falling down on the road in rainy weather.

"The board is quite familiar with this location. There are few people living near the location and the board cannot see any necessity whatever for a license at this place. It is not apparent that there would be sufficient local business to justify a license. There is practically no police protection along this road.

"The board is of the same opinion as it had when it rejected the Club 88 license. It is said by the applicant that the decision in the case of the Club 88 is not controling because there application was for a club license and the present is for a Class D beer license to serve the general public. It is less desirable than the Club 88. The remonstrance will be sustained and the application for license rejected."

Baron Places Local Boys On Probation

Four local boys, 11 to 14, were placed on probation for two years Tuesday in Juvenile Court for the theft of a priceless German Bible dating back to pre-Revolutionary War days.

Police said the coveted book with a leather cover was taken last week from the Allegany County Historical Society building at 214 Washington Street.

Efficient work by Detective Lt. James E. Van led to the recovery of the badly damaged Bible. He gave this account:

After entering the building about noon June 30, the quartet made off with the book and later attempted to burn it. The leather cover was ripped off.

Unsuccessful, the boys took the Bible to the new Cumberland-Ridgeley bridge and tossed it into the Potomac River.

Investigation involved two boys who accompanied Van to the river banks to conduct a search of the waters. Equipped with boots, the police official waded into the river after spotting the book and retrieved it.

Van returned the Bible to Miss Ruth Clauson, Hazen Road, president of the society.

Magistrate Morris Baron sentenced the quartet to the Maryland Training School for Boys before placing them on probation as delinquent minors.

Walsh Named To Assist Industry Law Preparation

William C. Walsh, local attorney and former attorney general of Maryland, has been named to a committee of the Legislative Council to draw up a new bill that would set up a state industrial promotion agency.

The judiciary committee of the council, interim body of the General Assembly, met Tuesday in Baltimore to consider a bill left over from the last legislature which, among other things, would have created a state director of industrial development at a salary of $7,500.

Speakers from many sections of the state, particularly Cumberland, emphasized that many states are far ahead of Maryland in the highly competitive race to lure new industry.

George C. Smith, of St. Mary's County, a pioneer in the industrial development field, said Maryland showed a lack of vision by placing the "tremendous job" of selling this state on the shoulders of chambers of commerce in individual cities.

Walsh, who heade.. the local chamber of commerce industrial promotion committee, pointed to Cumberland's success in convincing the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company to build a $35,000,000 plant with jobs for 4,000 persons here.

If such efforts were on a statewide basis, he continued, many more industries would locate in Maryland.

Albert Hargreaves, Cumberland industrial development director, said the proposed state agency would be a great help in gathering up-to-date facts about resources and industrial potential.

The discussion was the result of a measure introduced by Delegate J. Frank Raley, Jr. (D., St. Marys) during the 1955 legislative session. Raley's bill made little headway, but was referred to the Legislative Council.

Raley urged that the idea behind his bill be indorsed even if a different final measure is adopted.

Senator Louis L. Goldstein (D., Calvert), council chairman, quickly showed his approval by appointing a committee of Smith, Walsh and Raley to draw up a new bill.

This might reflect criticism that the Raley measure called for the creation of too small a department.

In addition, there might be a move to keep tourist promotion work out of the projected new state agency so that the existing Department of Information could continue to specialize in this field.

County Board Selects Auditor

With a dissent by County Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson, the Allegany County Board of Commissioners on Tuesday appointed James P. Rogers to do the annual audit of the books of the LaVale Sanitary Commission.

A motion made by Commissioner James Orr and seconded by Board President William H. Lemmert was passed by a two-one vote.

Commissioner Wilkinson said he was still for the appointment of another certified public accountant, John W. Rollins, of this city.

The Sanitary Commission had on Friday requested the county commissioners to hire an auditor for its books for the fiscal year that began Friday.

Commissioner Wilkinson then made a motion that Rollins be hired for the position, but this died for want of a second.

Commissioner Lemmert pointed out on Tuesday that the Sanitary Commission had recommended that Rogers be hired.

He referred to the last part of the letter from the Sanitary Commission through its secretary-treasurer, Willard R. Engle, that said:

"We would like to recommend James P. Rogers who has audited our books in the past."

After the vote, Commissioner Wilkinson said he was still in favor of Rollins' getting the job.

Colleen Kreger Is Bride Of William R. Kirk Jr.

Miss Colleen Kreger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl D. Kreger, Bowling Green, and William R. Kirk Jr., son of Mrs. Blanche Kirk Warnick, Ambridge, Pa., and William R. Kirk Sr., this city, were married June 26 in a ceremony in Kingsley Methodist Church. Rev. J. B. Snyder officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white nylon tulle over lace and satin, made with scooped neckline, long sleeves and full floor-length skirt. Her nylon tulle veil was held with a crown of seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a white Bible topped with baby orchids and stephanotis with satin streamers.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Straw, maid of honor, wore a white nylon lace gown over pasted orchid taffeta. Miss Sue Harmon, Miss Annette Delamater, Baltimore, bridesmaids, wore white nylon lace gowns over ice blue taffeta. Linda Jean Dicken, flower girl, wore a pink lace dress over pink taffeta. All wore crownless picture hats matching their dresses and carried white lace baskets of mixed summer flowers.

Robert Kirk was best man and John Graney, Westernport, and Harvey Kirk, Bowling Green, were ushers.

A reception was held in the church social hall following the ceremony. A four-tiered wedding cake, topped with miniature bridal couple and attendants centered the table. Mrs. Emma Collins and Mrs. Harry McNabb served the cake and Mrs. Charles Himmler and Mrs. William Shea presided at the punch bowl. They are all aunts of the bride. Mrs. William Hinkle also assisted in serving.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will reside at 209 Fayette Street.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

People often say that you can tell a model by the way she walks. And yet, we don't think of it so much as a professional specialty, but, instead as an essential feminine attribute. A model's grace and rhythmic gait can easily be imitated by every girl—if she gives some thought and time to it.

Posture is probably the keynote to her success. She may even have a figure or a face less than perfect, but her carriage—that's another matter. It must be above reproach. Her head is always high . . . tummy in, shoulders swinging free (you lack grace and beauty unless your shoulders—the most expressive and responsive part of you—have full play and aren't pulling backward or forward on your neck muscles), and her hips folded down and under her. This position of the hips means, whether standing or walking, "making yourself small" to squeeze through a narrow space. Send for the easy-to-follow book "Your Posture." Write me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10c in coin.

If you have lined yourself up correctly (check your whole body alignment in the mirror), the lobe of your ear, the outermost tip of your shoulder girdle, the outermost tip of your hip girdle, and the outside bump of your ankle bone should all be in one direct line. If you fall naturally into this common-sense construction, you are one of those lucky individuals. But, if you're out of it somewhere, you need some help in personal remodeling. Once you get it right, you'll go through all your motions with such ease, poise and balance—you'll feel like a new person.

Tomorrow—Be pore proud . . .

Council Officials Approve Course For Derby Race

The Mayor and Council has granted approval for the use of Pennsylvania Avenue for the eighth annual Soap Box derby Saturday, July 16, between 1 and 4 p. m.

As requested by J. Suter Kegg, director for the derby, Pennsylvania Avenue will be closed to vehicular traffic during the races. Members of the Junior Association of Commerce plan to erect snow fences along the 800-foot course to keep the crowd off the course and to assure a safe race. The fence will be removed immediately after the race, Kegg said.

Council also agreed to closing the street for two hours on the Friday before the race to allow each boy to test his racer on the course. Tests will be run between 2 and 4 p. m. July 15. In event of rain the race will be run Sunday, July 17.

Kegg praised cooperation of council, Police Department, Street Department and Auxiliary Police during past derbies and said they had contributed greatly to success of the project here.

Two other requests have been made to council. Roy Lewis, 700 Montreal Avenue, inquired as to progress of rezoning plans for that area in South End and was told by City Attorney Thomas B. Finan that a map prepared by the Engineering Department had been forwarded to the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission. That group has the matter under study and plans to advertise the zoning change in the near future.

James Alfred Avirett, commission chairman, added that almost two miles is involved in the rezoning which will run to Thomas Street. The program will be advertised perhaps by next week, he said, adding it might be possible to have a public hearing on the change by the end of the month.

Council also heard from Robert Helmstetter, 412 Franklin Street, concerning the condition of an alley by his home and blocking of another by vehicles across the street from his residence. Both matters are to be looked into, council decided.

Baptist Youths To Hold Picnic

The Western District of the Maryland Association of Baptist Young People, intermediate age and over, will hold a picnic rally today at the Second Baptist Church's picnic grounds on Cookerly's Farm, Williams Road.

Activities will begin with a ball game at 4:30 p. m. followed with supper, games and a vesper service.

George Feazell, seminary student and supply pastor of First Baptist Church, will speak and direct group singing.

Each youth is expected to bring his own refreshments. In case of rain, the event will be held in First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Earl Gross, district mission young people's director, is in charge of arrangements.

Auto Smashed By B&O Train At Corriganville

Three persons leaped to safety before an eastbound B&O freight train struck and demolished their car early today on the Rock Crusher Road crossing at Corriganville.

State Police identified the trio as Albert Francis Gerdeman, 526 Riehl Avenue, driver of the auto; Catherine Mullaney and Anna Definbaugh, both of Mt. Savage.

Trooper Robert D. Wolford, who investigated, said Gerdeman's 1954 sedan became stalled on the crossing about 12:20 a. m. and was hit by Train 2070.

After stopping to check the accident, crew members of the undamaged locomotive continued on their way.

Linzy Dixon, 21, of Cumberland, was involved in a four-car pileup Saturday along the Pennsylvania Turnpike on Allegheny Mountain. An unidentified man was slightly hurt.

Authorities listed the other operators as Steve R. Cedo, 25, Bronx, N. Y.; Stanley Kempster, 30, New York City, and Jerome M. Randman, Claymont, Del. Total damage was estimated at $1,200.

Man Drowns In Fishing Mishap

James A. Curren, 31, half-brother of Ivan and Richard Smith, city, drowned June 26 when a fishing boat upset in a river near his home at Red Creek, N. Y.

Curren was dead before help could reach him. A companion was rescued.

Born December 4, 1923 in Inglesmith, Bedford County, he was a son of Jerome and Minnie (Miller) Curren. Survivors include his widow, the former Dorothy Brown; three daughters, Carol, Shirley and Susan Curren, and a sister, Mrs. Dennis Jay of Artemas.

Rites were held Friday in Lyons, N. Y.

GM's 14 3-8 Point Gain Steals Show In Market

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—General Motors stole the show in the stock market today with an advance of 14⅜ at 127¾ following a split proposal.

The stock was up 3¾ yesterday, and after the close directors proposed that the present stock be split into three new shares. That would give the corporation around 279 million shares of stock.

Today there was a grand rush to buy GM, and it took the governors of the New York Stock Exchange and members who specialize in trading in GM one hour and 45 minutes to match the buying and selling orders.

They agreed on a price of 128 for a block of 85,000 shares, one of the biggest single transactions dollarwise ever made on the exchange—nearly 11 million dollars. The block represented all of the buying and selling orders received to that time.

DuPont, which owns some 21 million shares of GM, was up 10⅞ yesterday and 2¾ today to close at 246¼.

Among other big gainers were Sears Roebuck up 5 at 98¼, Allied Chemical up 3 at 122, Standard Oil (NJ) up 8¾ at 138, Standard Oil of California up 5 at 93, and Superior Oil of California up 50 points at 950.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up $1.40 at a new record high of $176.40. The industrial component was ahead $4.30 at a new high of $247.20, but the railroads were down $1.20 and utilities were off 10 cents.

Plans Announced For Bicentennial Homecoming

The Homecoming Committee of the Bicentennial Celebration has announced plans through its chairman, Mrs. Morris Rosenbaum, for the Welcome Home celebration which will take place on Monday, August 14, during the Bicentennial Week. A letter invitation is being sent to over 4000 former residents.

Plans call for registration from Monday throughout the week, with a daily publication of the names in the newspapers of individuals and families who return for the Bicentennial. However, in order to be eligible for awards which will be given, individuals must register before 4 p.m. Wednesday and stay here until Saturday.

An award is to be given to the one who travels the longest distance to return to Cumberland. This award will consist of a one way railroad ticket or the cost of the ticket, from the place where the person now permanently resides to Cumberland. To be eligible for this prize, the person must have been a former resident of Cumberland, must not have visited Cumberland within one year prior to August 14, must not be a member of the Armed Forces on leave, and must come from within the continental limits of the United States.

There will also be given an outfit for a child in the family which travels the farthest distance, and a plaque to the oldest former resident who travels at least 150 miles to return to Cumberland. All awards will be made on Saturday night at the performance of the pageant in Fort Hill Stadium.

A button or ribbon with the words "It's Good To Be Home," will be issued to those who register. Any individuals who wish invitations to be sent to relatives or friends who are former residents and who now live away, will call the Bicentennial headquarters and give the name and address of the person or family to whom they would like an invitation to be sent.

Assisting Mrs. Rosenbaum on the Homecoming Committee are Mrs. William A. Gunter, Mrs. Owen E. Hitchins, Mrs. William L. Wilson, Mrs. Simon Rosenbaum II, Mrs. Henry A. Mackey, Mrs. William C. Jacob, Mrs. William M. Somerville, Mrs. John F. Somerville and Mrs. Irving Millenson.

A registration desk will be located in the rotunda lobby of City Hall from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily starting Monday, August 14, and closing Friday, August 19. To be eligible for awards, however, visitors must be registered not later than 4 p.m. Wednesday, August 17.

County Health Budget Totals $35,589 For '56

State Requests Expenses For Year

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has submitted a budget of $35,589.61 to the State Health Department for the County Health Department for the fiscal year July 1, 1956 to June 30, 1957.

The budget was submitted by request of Dr. R. H. Riley, chairman of the State Department of Health, in accordance with recommendations of the subcommittee for the review of financing of Maryland health activities in the 1955 General Assembly.

The county health department budget indicated $31,187.61 for salaries of the health officer, dentist, public health nurse supervisor, three public health nurses, sanitarian, sanitarian supervisor, administrative assistant, laboratory stenographer, lab assistant, senior stenographer and bacteriologist.

Additional expenses for the county department were listed as $2,000 for automobile, $2,140 for clinics and laboratory work, $690 for office rent, and $1,200 for janitor service, making the total appropriation needed, $37,217.61.

The budget also noted that half the salary of the bacteriologist is paid by the City of Cumberland, thus reducing the total budget needs for the county to $35,589.61.

Dr. Riley's letter to the commissioners for next year's county health department budget stated that the responsibility of housing the county health department was that of the county; that distribution of the cost of local health departments will be in equal increments of 20 per cent each year beginning next July; that complete interchange of detailed financial reports in all agencies will be made; that sums for salaries in excess of the state's standards are excluded; that all costs for equipment and supplies to be borne by the state will be the same as in effect previously; and that the state budgets are to be submitted to the state budget director by Sept. 1, 1955.

Dr. Riley requested the county's budget be submitted to the state department of health by August 15.

W. Va. Vets File Bonus Claims

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 6 (AP)—The extension of the filing deadline for bonus claim applications has resulted in payment of 481 claims totaling $109,965, the office of T. H. (Pat) McGovran, director of the Department of Veterans Affairs, reported today.

The payments represent those made from a total of 663 claims considered. The report said 121 cases were reopened and 542 new claims were received.

The original filing date for a state bonus to veterans of World Wars I and II, or their survivors, was Dec. 31, 1952. The date was extended by the 1953 Legislature to June 30, 1953 and this year the Legislature extended it to Dec. 1, 1955.

Court Hears Arguments In Friendly Suit

Arguments were heard yesterday in the friendly suit filed by a local businessman against the Mayor and City Council in order to obtain a court ruling on the proper procedure to amend the city charter under home rule legislation.

Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, argued the city's case before Chief Judge George Henderson yesterday morning in Allegany County Circuit Court while William C. Walsh presented the side of the plaintiff, Owen E. Hitchins.

The city plans to issue bonds to finance the water line to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant site at North Branch and hopes to do it under an amendment to its charter under provisions of the constitutional home rule statute.

Since 1951 the city has had statutory home rule, but in November the voters of Maryland granted constitutional home rule to the state's cities through a statewide referendum.

Finan declared that Article 11 E of the state constitution (the constitutional home rule amendment) expressly gives the city the right to amend the charter by a resolution of the Mayor and Council.

This means that the bond issue could be authorized by a mere vote of the Mayor and Council.

The present city charter under statutory home rule provides for referendums when a bond issue is presented. This would mean a special election.

Finan held that when the legislature provides for a new system of local laws, such as the constitutional home rule amendment, any previous local laws that were inconsistent with the new ones are repealed. He cited cases in Maryland to substantiate this.

Walsh pointed to a case arising from a 50-cent a gallon liquor tax imposed by the Mayor and City Council of Baltimore under its constitutional home rule charter which it has held for many years.

The long and legally technical arguments continued for about three hours. Both sides presented lengthy briefs or written arguments to Chief Judge Henderson.

There was no indication as to when a decision would be forthcoming.

Attorneys explain that the question is an academic one and any decision made on it pioneers future proceedings under the home rule. As a matter of course, whatever devision is rendered in the case will probably be appealed, so that the higher court will also rule on the problem.

Safety Campaigns Help Pedestrians

In the highly-organized, much-publicized, widely-supported campaign in behalf of traffic safety, pedestrians step forward as principal beneficiaries.

Not only have walls of protection been erected to keep pedestrians from being knocked down in the street, but the pedestrians are fast learning to be careful and protect themselves.

Statistics released by the American Automobile Association (AAA) which cooperates with state, municipal and national safety groups in setting up and maintaining safeguards against careless walking and reckless driving are encouraging. When the AAA was well into its early round of study of accidents to pedestrians, in 1937, 15,000 persons on foot were killed in town and country traffic lanes. In 1953 the toll of pedestrians had been reduced to 8,600, and last year, 1954, it was only 7,900. Those figures carry more meaning when the vast increase in numbers of motor vehicles, and of pedestrians, is considered.

When municipalities first started cutting down traffic accidents, with emphasis on pedestrian protection, jay-walking was a nuisance in nearly every town, there were few traffic signals and the pedestrian hardly knew how to look out for himself. Today most of these faults have been corrected and needs fulfilled. Laws and safety regulations now compel safer driving and pedestrians themselves realize that they must play a leading part in their own protection and in the over-all traffic safety program.

The progress made in saving lives of pedestrians in the last few years emphasizes the importance of continuing the drive for safety in all categories. While 7,000 fewer persons on foot were killed in traffic last year than in 1937, the total number of traffic fatalities continues about as large as ever. But the fact that pedestrian lives can be saved by signals, lanes, "walk" lights, warnings, pleadings and other educational measures, gives hope that drivers, too, eventually will be brought under a similar safety banner.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

"Faceless Informers"

Since the early 1940's, there has been evidence that a small but extremely active group of Communists had found their way into some metropolitan newspapers and into radio. The proof was of a nature that could not stand up in a court of law and whenever a Congressional committee even looked at these organs of communication, it was faced by the dynamite of interfering with freedom of the press. The subject was carefully avoided. The politicians were afraid of it.

But the truth often comes out in the most unusual way. Winston Burdett, a C.B.S. commentator, has, for more than a year, been talking to some active anti-Communists on how a man goes about clearing his name and appeasing his conscience. He wanted to tell all but few would listen. He wanted to tell all unreservedly, giving to his country the entire sorry story of how young men, often idealistic, are sucked into a conspiracy against their own country. It is not an easy thing to do.

No one could charge Burdett with being a faceless informer or a professional witness. He had a job with the Columbia Broadcasting System which he could keep better by being quiet than he could by talking. No one had accused him of anything. In fact, when he began to tell his story, it looked as though he might be fired because of the publicity attending the disclosure of his record. It must be said for William Paley, the head of C.B.S., that he quickly realized that if Burdett were dismissed while he was talking, it would frighten others from making a clean breast of it. Paley kept Burdett on in spite of the fact that unfavorable publicity for C.B.S. was bound to result from his disclosures.

Winston Burdett and Charles Grutzner and other newspaper men who were carried away by the propaganda activities first of Heywood Broun and then of Simon Gerson, New York State Communist leader, once having been enmeshed in the toils of the Communist conspiracy, they found it difficult to free themselves. When this story is told in full, it will be clear that the lawyers for some of the newspapers that employed some of those mentioned by Burdett advised their clients to suppress the information and threatened to have the men fired if they confessed and mentioned names.

When newspapers accept the advice of lawyers on public relations, they go to the wrong place for wisdom and experience. The suppression of news, even when it hurts, is not the business of any newspaper. "The New York Times" would have shown a better face if it had fired those who were members of its Communist cell than it does today when the story about the cell broke as a part of Burdett's confession. "The New York Times" has known that at least two of its staff were involved weeks ago.

It is possible to draw false conclusions, however. Very few newspaper men in this country are Communists. A certain number joined the party when a Left-Wing element developed in the Newspaper Guild. Also some were Communists before they became newspaper men. Usually such men try to get copy-reading positions where they can slant the news, particularly by putting slanted headlines on correct stories. Too many publishers have taken a non-critical attitude toward such men, judging them on their merits as writers rather than on their ability as conspirators.

Some who were Left-Wingers when the Newspaper Guild was organized, by ability or seniority, have been able to move to executive positions where they can do great mischief, particularly in suppressing information unfavorable to their side or in ridiculing the opposition.

It would be incorrect to say that this is widespread over the country. It is correct to say that wherever these conditions exist, it is very harmful and damaging. It is also extremely difficult to prove that any of it is so, and publishers are loath to accuse men of being in a conspiracy when the information is nothing that could stand up in a court under the rules of evidence.

The value of the Burdett confession before the Eastland Committee is that it opens the door to a very ugly spot in radio and in the newspapers which now can be cleaned up. It also shows the importance of the ex-Communist in this fight.

Bone Of Contention

First Boston Corporation Has Ties Inside Ike Administration

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The First Boston Corporation, two of whose men were planted inside the Budget Bureau when the Dixon-Yates project was concocted, is an outfit which might well be given a careful once-over by the Senate Anti-Monopoly Committee. Its operations affect not merely Dixon-Yates but the manner in which certain bankers have put key men in government positions.

The First Boston is not located in Boston, and it is not the staid old New England firm the name indicates. On the contrary it is the "J. P. Morgan" of Wall Street today. J. P. Morgan is now barred by the Roosevelt legislation that followed the Depression from engaging in stock and bond flotation, and is now a conservative bank whose members are worried over current inflation.

Meanwhile, the First Boston Corporation has become what J. P. Morgan once was—the biggest underwriter of utility companies in the U.S.A. It is also bitterly Anti-TVA and bitterly anti-public power.

It has close ties with the White House through Sidney Wienberg, chairman of the giant Wall Street firm of Goldman-Sachs and a member of Ike's golfing Cabinet; also through General Robert Cutler of the First National Bank of Boston, parent of the First Boston Corp. Until recently Cutler was a member of the White House staff.

It also has very close ties with the Treasury through Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey. One of its directors, Arthur A. Van Bushkirk, is a director of Secretary Humphrey's Pittsburgh Consolidated Coal Co., biggest coal company in the world. Incidentally, Humphrey has never testified that he sold his stock in this and his other farflung companies.

It Pays To Have Friends

George D. Woods, chairman of First Boston, is also close to Harold Stassen and Eugene Black, head of the World Bank. Black sent him on a tour of India to make a report on its investment possibilities, while Adolph Wenzell, the man who was planted inside the Budget Bureau to help concoct the Dixon-Yates deal, has now gone to work for the World Bank.

Likewise, Ebasco, the engineering subsidiary connected with the Dixon-Yates deal, has been used by Harold Stassen, when he was head of foreign aid, for various utility projects abroad.

How close First Boston is to the Eisenhower Administration is illustrated by the manner in which its chairman, George Woods, recently turned round an important Air Force contract—merely by coming to Washington and having a conversation with Secretary Humphrey.

The Kaiser Aluminum Corporation had a contract with the Air Force to build and operate a giant aluminum press at Halethorpe, Md., near Baltimore. It was an important contract.

But Secretary of the Air Force Harold Talbott proposed taking the contract away from Kaiser and giving it to the Harvey Aluminum Corporation. Harvey has been a contributor to the Democrats in the past, but in 1952, sensing a political swing, its officials also contributed handsomely to the Eisenhower campaign, and Talbott was one of Ike's chief money raisers.

When Talbott proposed switching the Halethorpe aluminum press contract from Kaiser to Harvey, however, George Woods quietly came to Washington. Woods is a director of the Kaiser Company. Furthermore, his First Boston Corporation is the underwriter and a chief financier of Kaiser. So when he came to Washington and talked with Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, it did the trick.

Though Secretary of the Air Force Talbott was a big money-raiser for Ike, George Humphrey is more potent at the White House. So Talbott was reversed. Kaiser kept the Halethorpe contract. Harvey, despite its big contribution, was out of luck.

First Boston And Mellons

The First Boston Corporation was organized right after Roosevelt took the banks out of the underwriting business, at which time the First National Bank of Boston divorced itself from the First Boston Corporation and the latter took over the security business of the Harris-Forbes group.

Much later, July 31, 1946, First Boston merged with the old Andy Mellon interests in Pittsburgh, taking over the Mellon Securities Corporation. Dick Mellon and his sister, Mrs. Alan Schaife, then became important stockholders, with 112,500 shares of Class A stock and 46,778 shares of $100 cumulative preferred stock.

Significantly, Ralph Demmler, of the Pittsburgh law firm which represents the Mellon interests, became chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission shortly after Eisenhower became President.

Significant, also, when the highly controversial Dixon-Yates project came before the SEC, of which Demmler was then chairman, he rushed through an OK in record time. He did this despite the fact that the SEC had telegrams from J. D. Stietenroth, an official of Mississippi Power and Light, a Dixon-Yates subsidiary, showing shameless flouting of the Holding Corporation Act.

Chairman Demmler, who rushed the Dixon-Yates approval through the SEC, has now resigned to go back to his law practice in Pittsburgh.

Behind him in the SEC, however, remains Robert McDowell, head of the Division of Corporate Regulation, which has responsibility for enforcing the Holding Corporation Act. McDowell is from the Wall Street law firm of Sullivan and Cromwell, which in turn is the law firm of the First Boston Corporation.

McDowell is an Eisenhower appointee. When the Dixon-Yates project came before him for SEC scrutiny he did not excuse himself. He helped to pass on the problems of the combine which his old law firm helped originate from a secret vantage point inside the Eisenhower Administration.

Lattimore Case Decision Shows Need For New Laws

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — So far as the general public is concerned, the case of Owen Lattimore, Far Eastern expert who was indicted by two Federal grand juries on perjury charges, ended when the Department of Justice the other day asked a Federal judge to dismiss the indictments. This doesn't mean that, however, guilt or innocence has been established. For, due to the legal battle waged by the defendant against the wording of the charges themselves, the case was never tried on its merits.

The controversy inside Washington, especially among lawyers, moreover, hasn't ended. The case will certainly be studied by one of the congressional investigating committees to determine whether in view of the 4-to-4 decision of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals anyone hereafter can be successfully prosecuted on perjury charges even when they involve the allegedly deliberate dissemination of propaganda beneficial to an enemy country.

If the Federal judges appointed by Messrs. Roosevelt and Truman who now have reversed the entire trend of judicial interpretation of the score of perjury charges are to remain in command, it could happen that even in wartime no such prosecutions as were effected in the 1940's against the promoters of Nazism could ever be successful again.

Jailed Nazi Followers

For the truth is that present-day "liberals" who have inveighed against the nature of the indictments in the Lattimore case were in the forefront of the agitation to jail the Nazi followers in America on almost precisely the same ground a little more than a decade ago. But when alleged promoters of Communist causes now are indicted, the cry is that they would, if prosecuted, be punished for their beliefs and hence cannot be brought to trial on a perjury charge.

For the fundamental issue in the Lattimore case was whether the Far Eastern specialist lied when he denied that he was a "promoter of Communist interests" and "follower of the Communist line." The grand jury charged him with lying and one indictment said he "wilfully and knowingly" promoted such causes. The issue was not whether anybody could promote the Communist cause in America on the public platform or in the press under the protection of the right of free speech and a free press. It was whether Lattimore lied when he denied carrying out that sort of a course in his writings and speeches.

The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee in September 1952 unanimously—that is, all Democrats and Republicans—made a report submitting to the Department of Justice five instances of alleged perjury charges and characterized Lattimore as a "conscious, articulate instrument of the Soviet conspiracy in the United States."

But the Department of Justice, after being blocked by the U. S. Court of Appeals as to the wording of the indictments, finally gave up last week the effort to prosecute. Hence, so far as the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee is concerned, it may find itself compelled to make an exhaustive review of the whole subject. For theoretically at least it could mean that hereafter a witness might mislead the committee and knowingly carry on a campaign of propaganda for an enemy country and yet not be subject to any curb whatsoever by the laws of the land. Plainly new legislation may be needed and that's what the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee has a duty to study, and to make such inquiries as are necessary in pursuit of that legislative objective.

Department Helpless

Recently there has been a hue and cry that internal security could readily be left to the FBI and the Federal courts and that there was no need for congressional investigations. The latest developments, however, show the Department of Justice as throwing up its hands in helplessness when confronted with a case of a man whose writings it charged had coincided or paralleled the Communist causes. He denied being a promoter of Communist causes but the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in upholding the District Court said in effect that whether he lied or not was immaterial because there was no right to trial of a man's belief or writings. In substance, the court's action means that the question of a false oath in a future case of this kind is an issue that cannot be submitted to a jury because the subject matter itself now is ruled to be insusceptible of proof.

This is a far-reaching application of a radical concept and overturns what has been an established principle of Anglo-American common law since the 16th century.

The decision to drop the Lattimore case was not arrived at by the Department of Justice without considerable discussion among its lawyers. The case could have been taken on appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States. But to the top officials of the department it looked as if the whole thing might come to a head during the 1956 political campaign. So the Eisenhower administration, rather than risk the injection into partisan politics of the controversy—which, by the way, was begun in the courts by the Truman administration with the first indictments against Lattimore—decided to abandon it and pursue perhaps in some other case the issue of the scope of perjury indictments.

This, however, leaves several unresolved questions up to Congress and its security committees: is new legislation needed to curb propagandists who, it may be alleged, willfully and knowingly promote Communist interests inside the United States? Are propagandists for Communist causes in America to have a free hand here-after in the "cold war"? Is there to be a reversal of the "clear and present danger" doctrine of the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, famous liberal? For it was he who declared that the right of free speech does not include the right to cry "fire" in a crowded theater. The safety of the republic used to be paramount even with judges of "liberal" persuasion—at least they didn't refuse to listen to the evidence of an alleged infraction.

Hysterectomy Advised Only For Major Disease

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Removal of the uterus (hysterectomy) is one of the most maligned procedures in the field of surgery. The ultraconservative physician is likely to say it is done too frequently and the medical reformer believes it often is done unnecessarily. The enthusiast may remove the uterus in an attempt to relieve bizarre pelvic symptoms or for no other reason than to prevent cancer in the future.

Nowadays, hysterectomy never is performed to correct minor complaints or findings. The procedure is recommended only if a major disease exists or when symptoms add up to a major disability. Cancer and bleeding from fibroids or other pelvic conditions are the chief indications, followed by prolapse, severe endometriosis, and infections that do not respond to the usual remedies.

When these causes are obvious there is no disagreement but borderline conditions may lead to differences of opinion and confusion. This is particularly true when the uterus is blamed for backache or for nervousness unless nervousness is caused by pain, fear of fatal hemorrhage, or the knowledge of the existence of a lesion that suggests malignancy.

It may not be known that most hospitals have a rule that all tissues and organs taken out in the operating room must be sent to the pathologist for thorough study. He examines the material and usually make an accurate diagnosis of what was wrong. When tests show that cancer or many fibroids were present, the matter is handled in a routine fashion.

But when the uterus appears to be normal, the pathologist wants to know why it was removed. If it is found that one surgeon has taken out several normal uteri during the year, the pathologist may report his observations to the staff or to a special hospital committee. This group will then investigate all the factors involved including the patient's symptoms and personality as well as the ability, judgment, and integrity of the surgeon.

Occasionally a pathologist will make a report to the medical society and if the story is picked up by newspapers or magazines, the public begins to question the value of the operation and the medical profession is given another black eye. The ensuing confusion can do much harm.

After one of these "exposes" a woman with cancer procrastinated for more than two months, consulting five different specialists in the interval to make certain the operation was essential. The delay probably cost the woman her life because when surgery finally was done, it was too late.

Unjust criticism also disturbs the honest and reputable surgeon. But he does something constructive about it by asking that the records in his own hospital be investigated to determine if any hysterectomies were performed unnecessarily. In one hospital, results showed a bona fide reason in over 95 per cent of 1,000 consecutive cases. In another series of more than 10,000, a survey showed that 99 per cent were needed.

BLEEDING

W. V. writes: What is pseudohemophilia?

REPLY

Hemophilia is a hereditary disease affecting males but transmitted by females. Pseudohemophilia mimics the real McCoy; there is a tendency toward hemorrhages; and the bleeding and clotting times are prolonged. But the condition is neither hereditary nor partial to the male sex.

MUCUS PRODUCTION

C. R. writes: Is the mucus secreted during a cold a protective mechanism?

REPLY

I presume it is. Dryness of the membranes during an infection of the respiratory tract adds to the discomfort of the cold. A cough that brings up mucus is easier and less irritating than dry hacking.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Russel Crouse, inclined to mislay things himself, can never get over the punctilious, attentive-to-every-detail behavior of his partner and crony, Howard Lindsay. "He even answers every letter the day he gets it," marveled Crouse in mock despair. "Why, if he gets one of those flossy announcements about a private month-end sale for special customers of a Fifth Avenue haberdashery, Lindsay sits right down to explain to them why he can't make it!"

One of the cattiest actresses in the film colony outdid herself the night her arch rival made a big hit in a Las Vegas casino. "Hmph!" snorted the catty one; "she's certainly an overnight sensation — every night!"

Little Jonnie, upbraided by his teacher for faulty spelling, maintained stoutly, "Who cares about a guy who can spell a word only one way?"

Moscow's Surprises

By Stewart Alsop

MOSCOW.—This place is chock full of surprises, big and small. Consider a sampling of the small surprises.

The wallpaper in the hotel room turns out, on close inspection, not to be wallpaper at all. The elaborate pattern is painted on.

You can buy a bottle of a sweet and horrible drink known as "Krem Cola," in dual tribute, presumably, to Coca Cola and the Kremlin.

A good many men here, as soon as they begin to go bald, take heroic measures. They shave their heads bone clean.

The Kremlin cars have a special built-in honk, like the crowing of a rooster with laryngitis, to warn lesser citizens out of the way.

The Russians go in heavily for roadside advertising, in favor of toothpaste, peace, vodka, kindliness to cows, ice cream sodas, and so on. The results would not impress Messrs. Batten, Barton, Durstine, and Osborne. The commercial purpose is mysterious anyway, since all consumer goods are snapped up, almost regardless of price, as soon as they appear in the stores.

In the free market, for example, peasants do a brisk trade at fat prices in what appears to be ordinary roadside goldenrod. The abacus is a universal substitute for the adding machine, even in the state banks.

This last surprise serves to suggest what might rate as a medium sized surprise—Russia's odd old fashionedness. The future which John Reed professed to see often looks remarkably like the not too distant past, preserved with fly-in-amber fidelity.

Take one example. This reporter has just lunched in one of Moscow's two or three most expensive restaurants (all restaurants are expensive, but this one is hideously expensive). The restaurant looks precisely as it must have looked fifty years ago, when the reporter's mother visited Moscow as a young girl and no doubt ate decorously in the same place.

The green and gilt ceiling, the frescoes meant to deceive the eye, the vast chandeliers, the heavy filigreed table silver, the immense fake second empire standard lamps supported by smirking cupids—nothing can have changed. Nothing, that is, except the food, the prices, and the guests, mostly dowdy family groups and tough-looking types, eating alone, with no neckties.

The Kremlin is another surprise. Americans are accustomed to visualize the Kremlin as a collection of ugly, toadlike edifices, cold, sinister, and forbidding. Perhaps this mental image was fairly accurate in the days when it was state policy to keep the Kremlin and its famous occupant aloof and mysterious. But a campaign has been underway for some time to popularize and de-mystify the Kremlin, and the image is no longer accurate.

The elegant Czarist palaces, including the small eighteenth century palace where Stalin used to live, have been painted a bright butter-yellow, with white trim, and the roofs are a handsome green. Now the Kremlin is pretty—that is the only word for it. At the same time, instead of remaining mysterious and forbidding behind its handsome high walls, the Kremlin has become a tourist attraction—and one of Europe's most rewarding.

Ivan the Terrible's coronation throne, the ten-horse Czarist state coaches with panels exquisitely painted by Boucher, the imperial emeralds considerably larger than hen's eggs—such things are worth the inevitable case of museum feet. So are the gawking crowds of "progressive delegations" and the collective farmers peering round with a countryman's awe. For that matter, so is the unexpected sight of President Voroshilov, a short, neat, handsome man, hurrying along the sidewalk, obviously late for an appointment.

Yet, in an odd and paradoxical way, the really big surprise about this place is that it is so unsurprising.

Across the gulf of fear and hate which divides the world, those who detest the system here—which includes most Westerners and almost all Americans — have come to think of Russia as the other side of the moon, and of Moscow as a miserable collection of mud huts filled with a strange and hardly human race of people. Yet despite the surprises, Moscow is essentially a city like other big cities, with buses that run on schedule, and big buildings, and a good many people of all sorts and kinds.

Western diplomats complain that intelligent visitors with no trace of Communist sympathies are apt to be favorably impressed, simply because Moscow is not as bad as they expected. Thus Moscow enjoys rather the same advantage as the Soviet government abroad, when it acts, for once, in a way like any other government. What is really most surprising of all, however, is that this shabby and essentially ordinary city, deficient in both gayety and consumer goods, should have been for all these years a shining Mecca, a holy of holies, to so many millions of people in Asia and Europe.

Fire Destroys Orchard Plant Near Romney

Loss Is Placed At $250,000

ROMNEY — A building on one of the largest privately-owned single tract orchards in the United States was destroyed by a $250,000 fire last night, 15 miles southwest of Romney.

The flames, which were touched off when lightning struck the packing shed at the Chert Mountain Orchard, owned and operated by E. A. Leatherman Jr., caused damage estimated at nearly a quarter million dollars by Henry Powell, chief of the Romney Fire Department.

Chief Powell said the blazes were out of control when firemen arrived at the scene. The two-story frame building is located in the Purgittsville, W. Va., section. The building has a metal roof.

The orchard, which covers sections of Hampshire, Hardy, Mineral and Grant counties, employs several hundred men during the apple season.

Powell said the lightning hit about 8 p. m., setting fire to processing and packing equipment inside. Farmers in the area estimated the loss between $200,000 and $250,000.

The building contained a complete cold storage plant, with facilities to store 30,000 bushels of apples, grading equipment, 50,000 empty baskets and 30,000 empty apple boxes.

Powell said the baskets and boxes were stored on the second floor of the building, and that it is believed the fire was started in that area.

The blaze was discovered by a workman, whose call brought 18 members of the Romney Fire Department. Leatherman was not at the orchard at the time of the fire.

A small building which houses offices and a truck scale is located near the building, but was not damaged by the fire, Powell said.

Town Employes At Frostburg Get Pay Boost

Council Approves 10 Per Cent Raise

FROSTBURG — The Mayor and Council met Tuesday and approved a pay increase for town employes, effective July 1.

The council voted to grant all employes, with the exception of the police department personnel, a 10 per cent raise. The following basic wage was set for the police: Chief, $285; assistant chief, $270; sergeants, $264, and patrolmen, $256.

Harry D. Eisel, treasurer, submitted his monthly report, and the council passed on all regular bills. The clerk was authorized to secure prices on an air conditioning fan for the council chamber.

John Hartig, city engineer, stated that the Cumberland Contracting Company would start grading Washington Street today in preparation for paving. The contract price is $5,590, and does not include curbing.

Hartig pointed out that this is likely to create a pedestrian hazard this fall when school children from Beall High use this section from the school grounds to Sleeman Street. It was also pointed out that when residents of this area petitioned a street they cited that school children had no place to walk in this area except the street and that paving and sidewalks would eliminate a hazard, however, no sidewalks are being laid at this time.

The council authorized Chief of Police Lloyd Truly to go to Baltimore Friday to receive the "No Pedestrian Fatality Award" for the city.

Alex Close, city clerk, reported that revenue from parking meter collections were $9,140.45, as compared to $5,903.03 for the same period last year. The time covered was July 1, 1954, to June 30, 1955.

Fifth Annual Affair Begins This Morning

Golfers To Vie For 27 Prizes In 36-Hole Play Over Two Days

The fifth annual Invitation Golf Tournament of the Women's Golf Association of the Cumberland Country Club has attracted 103 entries from at least six states and the District of Columbia for its two-day affair which begins today.

The women golfers will begin teeing off at the first and 10th holes of the local 18-hole golf course at 8:40 this morning and will continue at five-minute intervals until all entries are playing.

Two-Day, 36-Hole Affair

For the first time the tourney is a two-day, 36-hole medal play affair, which will end Friday afternoon. Eighteen holes will be played each day.

A total of 27 silver trophies will be offered. The big prize being the Old Export Bowl—a sterling silver punch bowl—which is offered by the Cumberland Brewing Company.

Miss Mary Ann Downey, of the Baltimore Country Club, current Eastern States champion, and Baltimore City titleholder for the second straight year, can retire this trophy by winning this year. Miss Downey won legs on the bowl in 1953 and 1954 by turning in low gross scores of 75 and 79 in the 18-hole tests which previously were held.

Mrs. McCuskey Here

The Cumberland Country Club tournament committee received word last night that Mrs. John McCuskey, of Clarksburg, W. Va., who participated in the recent West Virginia State Tournament, will be here trying to gain a second leg on the Old Export Bowl. Mrs. McCuskey was the winner of the first tourney in 1951. The other winner was Mrs. Nancy Bycott, now Mrs. Harold Stumpp, of Wheeling, in 1952.

Four players who went to the semi-finals in the recent Baltimore City tourney are entered in the local event. They are Miss Downey, Mrs. J. W. Y. Martin, of Green Spring Calley Country Club; Mary Ann Musser, 16-year-old daughter of the pro at the Allview Country Club, Baltimore, and Mrs. Maurice Glick, of Woodholme Country Club, seven times Baltimore City champion.

Other Entries Noted

Mrs. Claude Richards, Westminster, Md., and member of the Country Club of Maryland, who is also well known in the trapshooting world, will also be among the leading contenders for the Old Export Bowl.

Included among the entries from the Washington area are Mrs. J. P Trouchaud, champion of the Kenwood Country Club; Mrs. James Swink, titleholder at the Belle Haven, Va., Country Club and Mrs. Betty Mackley, former U. S. Senior champion.

Sign For Bout

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP) — Ray Drake and Danny Giovanelli, New York middleweights, signed today for a 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden on Wednesday night Aug. 4. It will be televised nationally.

Mueller's Homerun Beats Phils, 4-2

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP) — Don Mueller's home run with a man on base broke up a tie in the sixth inning and gave New York a 4-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies in a rain-shortened game tonight. The game was called with the Giants still at bat in the sixth.

The phils entered the bottom of the sixth leading 2-0, but the Giants got to work quickly to chase starter Curt Simmons. Whitey Lockman, back in action after two days of rest because of a sprained ankle, doubled and Willie Mays walked. Simmons then fielded Bobby Hofman's bunt but threw wild attempting to make a play at third and Lockman and Mays scampered home to tie the score.

Mueller followed with his fifth homer of the year, hitting the upper right field seats, to make it 4-2.

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, July 6 —(INS)—The weather here has been so unbearably hot that Yankee ball players have been frying eggs atop their dugout.

But New York weather is invariably ideal in October, and out-of-towners intending to see the World Series should send in their bids early to the Dodgers, 215 Montague St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

It has been said that the only sure things are death and taxes, but the Dodgers seem an equally safe bet to make the series.

How can they miss? They reached the halfway mark with 55 games won and only 22 lost. If they do as well in the second half of the season, they will wind up with 110 victories and 44 losses.

But they won't have to do that well to win. At the rate the Chicago Cubs and Milwaukee Braves have been traveling, 90 victories probably will be enough to clinch the National League pennant.

The Dodgers wound up the first half with a team batting average of .274 and with a total of 110 home runs to their credit.

Those figures bespeak their power. As for their pitching take a look at big Don Newcombe, Johnny Podres, Carl Erskine, Karl Spooner, Billy Loes, Ed Roebuck and Jim Hughes.

These are good pitchers, but they wouldn't have to be as good as they are when they have a club getting them an average of six runs a game.

It may be that the entire World Series will be played on either side of the Brooklyn Bridge, but we suggest that you delay sending in your requests for tickets to the Yanks.

The Yanks, of course, are still on top but they are by no means a sure bet to win. The Chicago Sox and Cleveland Indians are far from dead, and the Boston Red Sox are looking more alive all the time.

The Red Sox got off to a miserable start, but if they can continue to click as they have for the last month they could very well take it all.

Owner Tom Tawkey has spent millions in an effort to give Boston a pennant and we should like to see him succeed.

New York has had the series too often. In the last 50 years, New York has had at least one club in the series 30 times. On 11 occasions two of the big town's three clubs played each other.

We don't suppose that Giant, Yankee or Dodger fans will become blase about having their team in a World Series. But we think the country outside New York would rather see other clubs in the series.

For our part, we should like to see the Red Sox playing the Braves or Kansas City or Baltimore vs. Milwaukee.

But we very much fear we may be stuck with the Dodgers (sure) and the Yanks (probable).

Three British Golf Pros Ahead In Open Tourney

Reese, Scott, Brown Fire First Round 69s

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, July 6 (AP)—Three British professionals—a Scot, an Englishman and a Welshman—caught the Old Course in a sunny, benign mood today and took three strokes off par for 69s in the opening round of the British Open Golf Championship.

One of the three, Dai Reese of Wales, has been runner-up in the last two British Opens.

Other 69s were shot by Syd Scott of England and Eric Brown, a former Scottish fireman on a railway engine. Scott shared second place with Reese and Bobby Locke last year, when Australia's Peter Thomson won.

Ed Furgol Shoots 71

The best shooter of five Americans was Ed Furgol of Clayton, Mo., the 1954 American Open champion, who had 36-35—71.

Three par 72s were shot by Byron Nelson, a veteran Texan; Joe Conrad, San Antonio, Tex., the British amateur champion; and by Johnny McHale of Philadelphia. Johnny Bulla of Pittsburgh was high American with a 75.

Both McHale and Conrad are amateurs and along with Scotland's A. M. M. Bucher lead the non-salaried players.

Just behind the three leaders with steady 70s were British pros Henry Cotton, Bernard Hunt, Frank Jowle, and Cecile Denny, all of England; Dennis Smalldon, of Wales, and Ian Martin, Scotland.

Tourney Continues

Bracketed among the 71s along with Furgol and 10 others was Thomson, the defending champion.

The tournament continues with another 18-hole round tomorrow. After that trip the field will be shaved to a maximum of 50. Survivors will play two rounds Friday bringing to a close the 85th British Open.

Cards Beat Redlegs

CINCINNATI, July 6 (AP)—A Cincinnati Redleg rally fell short tonight and the St. Louis Cardinals finished with a 6-4 decision. Rookie Larry Jackson had the Reds baffled for seven innings but they got to him in the eighth and ninth and he needed help from Brooks Lawrence, Luis Arroyo and Mel Wright in the ninth to preserve the Card victory.

Rip Repulski and Ken Boyer hit home runs for the Cards and Gus Bell got one for the Reds.

Tigers Defeat Chisox, 5 To 3, Behind Garver

Kaline Belts 18th Homer For Detroit

DETROIT, July 6 (AP)—Amazing Al Kaline slugged a two-run homer over the left field screen in the first inning today, starting the Detroit Tigers to a 5-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

It snapped the Tigers' six game losing streak—their longest in two years.

Kaline connected off loser Virgil Trucks following an inning-opening single by Harvey Kuenn and a forceout grounder by Bill Tuttle.

It was Kaline's 18th homer of the season and gave him 65 runs batted in. He later doubled to left center, pushing his league leading batting average to .375.

Ned Garver went all the way for Detroit, pitching out of frequent trouble as he recorded his first victory since June 7. It brought his overall mark to 6-9.

Trucks gave up a second inning home run to Fred Hatfield and left after four innings, charged with his sixth loss against eight victories. A stream of four relief pitchers followed him to the mound, three of them working in the eighth inning when the Tigers added their final two runs on a double by Kuenn, an intentional walk to Kaline and singles by Earl Torgeson and Ray Boone.

The Sox scored in the first on a double by Jim Busby, who had four hits, a bunt single by Nellie Fox and an infield grounder by Jim Rivera. Their second tally came in the third inning on a trio of singles by Busby, Rivera and George Kell.

St. Paul Open To Begin Today

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 6 (AP)—The long-range sluggers of golf's money wheel wade into four days of unshackled blasting in the $15,000 St. Paul Open starting tomorrow.

No needle-eye accuracy off the tees will be needed this week at the 6,600 yard public links, which required four months of ingenious toughening a year ago to hold scores in the PGA Tournament within respectable bounds.

The conditions promised to make Keller's par 72 even more amiable than usual and automatically made title threats of such maulers as Mike Souchak, the season's leading money winner, Sam Snead, George Bayer and others.

TRACK COACH—Mel Patton, former University of Southern California sprint star and now track coach at Long Beach City College, has been named track mentor at the University of Wichita, it has been announced at the Kansas college.

Conley Scores Over Cubs As Braves Win 5-1

All-Star Hurler Cops 10th Victory

CHICAGO, July 6 (AP)—Gene Conley, selected for the National League All-Star team, today became the first Milwaukee pitcher to win 10 games when he hurled the Braves to a 5-1 conquest over the Chicago Cubs before a ladies' day crowd of 40,985.

Conley yielded just three hits in posting his first win since June 20, and missed a shutout when he gave up a leadoff single to pinch batter Frankie Baumholtz in the sixth. This swat was blended with Hank Aaron's error, a walk to Gene Baker, and rookie Jim King's single.

The Braves blasted a total of 11 hits off a threesome of Chicago pitchers as starter Bob Rush suffered his fifth loss.

The victory, Milwaukee's eighth in 13 games against the Cubs, pulled Charlie Grimm's gang within one game of the second place Chicagoans.

The Braves gained a 1-0 lead in the second on Bobby Thomson's pop fly double and Joe Adcock's single.

Milwaukee made it 3-0 in the third on Billy Bruton's leadoff single, and Eddie Mathews' 21st homer, a drive over the right field screen.

Orioles Righthander Tosses Four-Hitter; Red Sox Beat Nats

BALTIMORE, July 6 (AP) — Jim Wilson shut out the league leading Yankees on four hits and batted in two runs to help drive Whitey Ford off the mound tonight as the lowly Baltimore Orioles handed New York its fourth straight defeat, 4-0.

Dave Philley opened the fourth inning with a hit to left which bounced in front of Irv Noren, then hopped over his head for a double. Gus Triandos grounded off Eddie Robinson's glove but was thrown out, Gil McDougald to Robinson in a close play which started the argument which ended with Richards' ouster. Philley took third on the play.

Hoot Evers drew a walk, the third off Ford and went to second as Philley scored on Hal Smith's single to center. Chuck Diering flied deep to Noren against the leftfield wall for the second out and then the fireworks started in earnest.

Willy Miranda doubled to the rightfield corner, scoring Evers and sending Smith to third. Wilson singled to right, scoring Smith and Miranda with the third and fourth runs.

Texans Hold Records

The Texas League holds the baseball record for consecutive defeats as well as consecutive victories, the booby prize going to the Austin club of 1914 which lost 31 games in a row. In the course of the losing streak, Austin used two managers, 11 pitchers, four catchers, 10 infielders and six outfielders. The hoodoo was finally broken on July 12 when Hatton Ogle, pitching his first game for Austin, defeated Fort Worth, 9-3.

Corsicana, with 27 victories in a row in 1902, holds the record for the longest win streak.

Giles Plasters $100 Fines On Brawling Pilots

Tebbetts And Walker Scuffled During Game

CINCINNATI, July 6 (AP)—Birdie Tebbetts, manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, and Harry (The Hat) Walker, manager of the St. Louis Cards, were fined $100 each today for participating in a fight at Crosley Field last night.

Warren C. Giles, president of the National League, who witnessed the brawl between the managers at the home plate in the ninth inning, fined the men.

In a statement, he said: "Scuffles between players under tension in a close ball game do not normally require action by the league office but when managers are involved it is a different situation.

"Managers have an obligation to preserve or restore order and, not by their own actions, to incite disorder. Accordingly, Manager Harry Walker and Manager Birdie Tebbetts are each fined $100 for their conduct in the game of July 5."

Catcher Bill Sarni of the Cardinals, was fined $25 for repeatedly refusing to heed Umpire Jocko Conlan's orders to return to his position and resume play.

Giles did not call Tebbetts and Walker before him, but acted after hearing the reports of the umpires.

Tebbetts took a punch at Walker during an argument over the warming up of St. Louis replacements in the outfield and at third base. He led with a wild round house right and missed.

Walker swung back and they wrestled to the ground, rolling about and punching.

Tebbetts came out of the melee with a scratched face, a couple of spike wounds on his legs, and a bloody nose. Walker complained that he had suffered a bruise on the bald spot on his head.

Both managers expressed regret afterward and said they had no bad feelings.

Detroit Gives Fain Release

Infielder Bothered By Injured Knee

DETROIT, July 6 (AP) — Fierry Ferris Fain, a two-time American League batting champion was given his unconditional release by the Detroit Tigers today.

The 33-year-old first baseman, plagued for the past year by torn ligaments in his right knee, which gradually reduced him to the role of a pinch hitter, said he hoped to stay in the major leagues "if somebody will have me."

The Tigers, who obtained Fain in a six-player trade with the Chicago White Sox last Dec. 6, said they dropped him because his injured leg no longer enabled him to contribute to the team.

Always a fierce competitor, Fain in recent weeks served as a pinch hitter, and it was no secret that he was unhappy over the situation. Watching from the quiet of the dugout made him irritable to the point where he had several minor incidents with some of his teammates.

Fain, who suffered his knee injury when he slid into Boston catcher Sammy White in June, 1954, appeared in 58 games for Detroit this season, hitting 264. But he obviously was handicapped by the painful leg, limping on the base paths and in the field.

The Tigers, attempting to finish in the first division for the first time since 1950, purchased Earl Torgeson, another veteran first baseman from the Philadelphia Phillies June 15.

Patterson Kayoes McBride In 7th

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP) — Floyd Patterson, the 1952 Olympic middleweight champ, proved tonight he could handle a man-sized heavyweight when he gave away 15½ pounds to Archie McBride of Trenton, N. J., and knocked him out in 1:46 of the seventh round at Madison Square Garden.

Patterson weighed 170¾, McBride 186¼ pounds.

Cutting loose with those quick hands, Patterson dropped McBride for a nine-count in the sixth round and again for nine in the seventh before polishing him off.

A solid right hand punch, followed by a smashing left sent McBride sprawling on all fours for the third knockdown. He was on his knees as Referee Al Berl counted off eight-nine-ten, but in no condition to continue.

Williams Leads Bosox To 7-5 Triumph

BOSTON, July 6 (AP)—Fabulous Ted Williams, the driving force behind the sizzling Red Sox, slammed a two-run homer, a double and a single tonight in Boston's 7-5 victory over Washington in the rain-delayed first game of a scheduled twi-night doubleheader.

The second contest was postponed due to rain and rescheduled as a single game tomorrow night.

Williams' homer, his 11th of the season and 377th of his major league career, came in the fifth inning off Dean Stone and put the Sox in front to stay, 5-4.

The win was the sixth in a row, 11th in 12 and 25th of the last 30 for Boston.

Mickey Vernon's two run homer in the fifth, his ninth, gave Washington a brief 4-3 lead.

Detroit Signs Joe Coleman

DETROIT, July 6 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers today signed righthander Joe Coleman, recently released by the Baltimore Orioles.

Coleman had an 0-1 record with the Orioles and had been hampered by arm trouble.

Coleman won 13 and lost 17 for the Orioles last season with a 3.50 earned run average.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, July 6—(INS)—Now it's Tony Martin taking on a picture in which he sings not one song. It's "The Frontier Scout" for Aubrey Schenck and Howard Koch for United Artists.

If Frank Sinatra can win an Academy Award without even humming—Tony, too, should do all right without resorting to his golden pipes.

His picture is an off-beat western, in color, which starts August 15. For this chance to prove himself as an actor, Tony gave up a big singing role in another picture and is cancelling two nightclub dates.

Quite a party the Joe Cottens gave on the 4th with a twelve-piece brass band toting out marches for a wingding that started at noon and lasted 'til midnight.

But the big splash took place when a group of the revelers marched six abreast straight into the swimming pool with all their clothes on!

As one glamor doll, dripping wet, drawled to the surprised Cottens, "Oh, it is just a little summer cotten, nothing expensive."

Plenty of excitement over those rumors that Debbie Reynolds was being given a secret shower tomorrow—and you know what that means!

Well, we were all abub about the whole thing and then we called Debbie's mother. She was laughing.

"Debbie's going to a shower all right," Mrs. Reynolds said, "but it's for two other girls—two friends who are being married this month."

The Debbie-Eddie (Fisher) engagement is status quo—until further notice.

Now that Spencer Tracy is moving in at Paramount for "The Mountain," Charlton Heston is expected to be handed the other top male role. This is the first picture Spenc has made in which he has a very attractive participation set-up, a "cut" to you. Edward Dmytryk is directing.

James Cagney, hotter now than he's been in years, agreed to take the part Tracy abandoned in "Tribute To A Bad Man" at MGM. Now everybody is happy this jinxed picture is ready to go again with only minor changes in the script due to the switch from Tracy to Cagney.

Hollywood in shorts:

Zsa Zsa Gabor leaves for Europe, and Rubi, over the week-end.

Noel Coward is resting on his Las Vegas honors at Clifton Webb's Beverly Hills home. Be here a week.

The talk from London is that Vivien Leigh's daughter by her first marriage, Suzy Holman, and Tony Furness (son of Lady Thelma Furness) are very romantically inclined.

It made Leo Spitz very happy that Dr. Ralph Bunche made a trip to Los Angeles just to help Leo celebrate his birthday. Mrs. (Frankie) Spitz leaves here in August to join Mrs. Roosevelt and other USA delegates to the World Federation of United Nations in Thailand.

That's all today.

Sales Show Increase

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP) — Wholesalers sold about 2 per cent more in May than in April, and their sales ran 13 per cent higher than in May last year, the Census Bureau said today.

Fate Can Be Strange

NEWCASTLE, England, July 6 (AP)—"For many years I have been a steeplejack in the United States," said Patrick Rafferty of Catonsville, Md.

"Never had an accident, and then I have to come to England and get bumped down by a car in the street."

He is in a hospital with head injuries, but physicians said his condition is not critical.

The South American species of the praying mantis are so large that they attack small frogs, lizards and birds.

Heart Deaths Drop

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—Deaths from diseases of the heart and blood vessels dropped slightly last year, but continued to outrank deaths from all other illnesses.

American Heart, quarterly publication of the American Heart Assn., said deaths from diseases of the cardiovascular system fell from 793,120 to 773,930.

Of all deaths, 52.3 per cent were caused by heart and blood diseases.

Contract Bridge

by Josephine Culbertson

TWO-WAY DEFEAT

WELL-CONSIDERED preemptive bidding by the opponents can make it very difficult, if not impossible, for partners to get together and select their proper contract. Even the best partnerships are shut out from time to time. Thus, it was understandable that in the following deal East-West should have been "handcuffed" during the auction, but they did not have to lose what they did lose on the deal.

North dealer.

East-West vulnerable.

	North
	♠ A 10 5
	♥ 9 6 4
	♦ 8
	♣ Q J 10 8 7 3
West		East
♠ 7 4	N	♠ 6 3
♥ A K 5	W E	♥ J 10 8 7 3 2
♦ K Q J 6	S	♦ A 4 3
♣ K 5 4 2		♣ A 6
	South
	♠ K Q J 9 8 2
	♥ Q
	♦ 10 9 7 5 2

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

East-West would have had clear and easy sailing at a five-heart contract, but East felt (with good reason) that a three-heart overcall of the three clubs would be a reckless action, vulnerable as he was; and West in turn felt that he could not afford to act over South's three spades. There was less logic in West's reaction—he might well have risked a double, which would have been for a takeout. True, this aggressiveness could go very wrong; East might be extremely weak, but the evidence was against that possibility.

West, defending against the four-spade contract, opened the king and ace of hearts. South ruffed and led a low diamond. West put up the jack and, fearing that a shift to trumps might pick up the queen in partner's hand, continued with the diamond king. Declarer was glad to ruff this in dummy, and he then led a low club. East put up the ace, and he also felt that a shift to trumps might expose his partner's queen, so he returned a club. That was all South needed. He could ruff out the opposing diamond honors, finally draw trumps, and claim the contract with a good diamond.

It really does seem that "somebody," East or West, should have led a trump!

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Surplus Food Need Seen Declining

The Red Cross branches in Allegany County registered a total of 909 families last week for surplus food distribution in August. This total did not include figures from Barton, because due to some misunderstanding there, no registration was held. Barton will register today from 9 a. m. until noon at the Barton Fire Hall.

There was a noticeable decline in the number of families seeking surplus foods, compared to past months, and it is indicated that employment is picking up throughout the county.

The registration figures show Lonaconing registered 202 families, Frostburg 200, Mt. Savage 124, Midland 120, Cumberland 101, Westernport 82, and Eckhart 80.

The Midland registration includes Gilmore and National and the Westernport figure includes Luke, Dawson, and McCoole.

In addition to the Red Cross, the Associated Charities, and Salvation Army also are conducting registrations for their clients, while the Welfare Board continues its certification for those enrolled there.

City Can Ask New Garbage Contract Bids

Must Comply With Code Provisions

The City of Cumberland can re-advertise for bids on its garbage contract, Judge Morgan C. Harris ruled yesterday, but must comply with the City Code in advertising the bids.

The Court found that the city failed to include certain provisions in its advertisement, which provides for wages to be paid to laborers employed by the contractors and the hours to be worked.

The case grew out of a suit by George W. Martin, 619 St. Mary's Avenue, who filed a bill of complaint against the city, to restrain it from re-advertising the contract.

Council had received four bids, from Emmett A. Dougherty & Son $64,445; C. L. Beck, $64,800; John J. Riley and Son, $67,980, and Harry E. Davis, $68,531.

The City Council had discussed the bids and Commissioner William H. Buchholtz presented an order to award the contract to the present garbage collector, Riley, although his bid was next to the highest and two were lower.

There was some difference of opinion among city officials on the order, and considerable discussion on the question. Finally the Mayor and Council rejected all bids and directed Buchholtz to re-advertise the contract.

The bill of complaint resulted in a stay of action on the part of the city and the complainant sought a court ruling to have the Mayor and Council accept the lowest bid, or if the council considered the bids excessive, to reject all bids and have the garbage collection work done by the city.

The court's action, attorneys noted, now makes it possible for the city to re-advertise as it planned to do, but the form and provisions of the bids must be made to comply with sections of the code, still in existence.

State Polio Program Off Until Fall

BALTIMORE, July 6 (AP)—Maryland health officials today put off until fall resumption of the state's polio inoculation program saying it ought to be postponed until after the polio season.

More than 100,000 first and second graders in Maryland already have had their first shots and health officials said these should be good for at least eight months.

A joint statement by the Maryland State Department of Health and the Baltimore City Health Department said the departments felt "the long range success of this important preventive medical procedure will be more adequately assured by postponing further inoculations during the height of the polio season and waiting until October or November when the disease is waning."

Maryland's program along with those in many other states, has been marking time since the U. S. Public Health Service called for a recheck of vaccine-making procedures.

Maryland has used up its first allotments of the vaccine and the statement said that in response to queries from the Association of State and Territorial Health Officers and the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis, the Maryland departments "have indicated next fall is preferred for receipt of new supplies" for the school inoculation program.

First shots already have been administered in Maryland to more than 90 per cent of the 126,728 children whose parents requested vaccination.

Today's statement by the health departments said "scientists agree that the immunizing effect of the first shot is retained for further stimulation by the second injection for a period of at least eight months." Maryland's first series of shots were begun in April.

Masked Man Gets Wallet, $18 In Piedmont Stickup

A masked stickup man was being sought in the Tri-Towns area last night after he reportedly stuck a pistol in a Cleveland man's back and robbed him of $17 or $18.

Robert Rice said the masked man took his wallet from him in the second-floor washroom of the Piedmont American Legion home after poking him in the back with an object which Rice took to be a pistol.

Piedmont Officer Eugene Keyes, who saw the holdup man run from the building, gave chase as he ran to the B&O Railroad tracks. Keyes fired a shot at the fleeing man as he disappeared in the Paxton Street area.

Piedmont and Westernport authorities were being aided in the search by State Police.

Mackert Children Win Talent Show

There were 11 contestants in the program held Thursday night at the play center.

Presents Bicentennial Gift

Miss Leone Saeli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Saeli, presents a gift of Cumberland stemware to Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro in Baltimore yesterday. As Miss Fort Cumberland, she also presented Mayor D'Alesandro with a special invitation to attend the Fort Cumberland Bicentennial celebration which will be held here August 14-20. She later presented a similar gift to Governor McKeldin at the State House. McKeldin assured her he would be here for two Bicentennial events.

Georges Creek Flood Survey Team To Arrive

Will Seek Thorough Protection Plan

A survey crew from the United States Soil Conservation Service will arrive here today to begin plans for a thorough flood prevention plan for the Georges Creek Region.

At a special meeting of the executive board of the Georges Creek Flood Control Association last night in Frostburg City Hall, officials of the State and County Soil Conservation Service outlined plans for the survey and assured county representatives that the crew has been assigned.

Martin Gordon, soil conservation agent for Allegany County, attended and presented Arnold Bolle, John W. Barnard and Kendall Jarvis, all of College Park. Bolle is Maryland's new soil conservationist succeeding Barnard, who has been assigned to the Washington office, while Jarvis is the service's chief engineer assigned to Maryland.

These men outlined preliminary plans for the survey and said the survey crew will spend about two days here, will make plans, and then will establish headquarters in one of the Georges Creek communities and remain here as long as necessary to complete the survey and planning.

After the plan is prepared, federal funds will be sought through the Soil Conservation Service to implement a plan to prevent the disastrous flash floods, high water and resultant erosion in the entire Georges Creek watershed from Frostburg to Westernport.

The Flood Control Association is made up of representatives of each incorporated town as well as unincorporated towns in the Georges Creek Valley, along with representatives from the Board of Allegany County Commissioners.

The survey crew, which has just completed some similar work in nearby Pennsylvania, will cooperate with residents and town officials, and representatives of the Soil Conservation Service last night said they will need full cooperation of every community and every resident in order to make the survey as complete as possible.

The meeting last night, a special one, was called by Charles S. Harvey of Shaft, association president, to hear plans for the survey. About 15 people representing all the communities involved attended.

Gov. McKeldin Accepts Bicentennial Invitation

Governor Theodore R. McKeldin yesterday gave a royal welcome to Miss Fort Cumberland and assured a local goodwill delegation he will be here for the Americanism Day and the Governor's Day program during the Fort Cumberland Bicentennial celebration.

Miss Leone Saeli, as Miss Fort Cumberland, extended personal greetings of the city to Gov. McKeldin and presented him with a gift of glassware from the City of Cumberland.

To Miss Saeli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Saeli, the governor presented a miniature flag of Maryland, an autographed copy of his book, "The Art of Eloquence" and then pinned on her a Black Eyed Susan, the state flower.

Governor McKeldin extended to Col. F. Egerton Powell, Bicentennial chairman, his best wishes, and said he plans to attend two of the Bicentennial events.

A similar invitation and a gift was presented to Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro in Baltimore, and Miss Saeli extended a personal Bicentennial invitation to Mayor A. B. Ellington in Annapolis.

Today, Alice Martin, 216 Saratoga Street, a member of the Potomac Edison Company staff, will serve as Miss Fort Cumberland during visits to Carlisle, York, Gettysburg and Harrisburg, Pa., where she will present a special invitation to Governor George M. Leader.

Bloodmobile Gets 176 Pints In County Visit

The Red Cross Bloodmobile Unit which visited Cumberland and Lonaconing the past two days collected a total of 176 pints of blood, for the poorest showing of any previous visit. Cumberland collected 116 pints on Tuesday and Lonaconing area residents gave 60 pints yesterday.

At Lonaconing, 90 donors had been scheduled, but only 45 of these kept their appointments. There were 32 "walk-ins," bringing the total to 87 donors. Of this number, 16 were rejected because of iron deficiencies or other reasons. Two gave only a half-pint each.

At Cumberland, Red Cross volunteers said the "poor" showing both here and at Lonaconing was due to the long weekend holiday, people on vacations, and the intense heat of recent days.

There were 259 persons scheduled to donate blood Tuesday. Of this number, only 106 kept their appointments. There were 22 walk-ins, about half the usual number. Only eight of the 116 donors were first-timers, clearly indicating that the same people seem to be supporting the blood bank most of the time.

Twelve persons were rejected for one reason or another. Dr. W. Royce Hodges was the volunteer physician on duty for the day.

The new Gallon Club members who received their Gallon Club emblems here Tuesday include, Rolly Atkinson, Algonquin Hotel, William G. Barger, LaVale Terrace; Mrs. Mary J. Best, RFD No. 1, Mt. Savage; Thomas F. Conlon, Jr., 529 Avirett Avenue; Paul Cook, Ridgeley; Mrs. Olive B. Deneen, Great Cacapon, W. Va.; Miss Rosalie Everstine, 657 Greene Street; Slayton Gillum, RFD No. 6, City; Mrs. William Harrison, Bowling Green; Levi Casper Lochel, 4 Browning Street; Mrs. Eva L. Man Killed By Lightning Near Pocahontas, Pa.

Frank E. McKenzie Dies Instantly

A Pocahontas, Pa., farmer was killed and his two sons were slightly injured when lightning struck a tree under which they had taken shelter during a severe storm Tuesday afternoon.

Somerset County Coroner Robert H. Halverson said Frank E. McKenzie, 41, died instantly.

Coroner Halverson said McKenzie and his two sons, Ernest, 14, and Roger Lee, 9, had been mowing hay in a field on the McKenzie farm when the storm came up about 2:15 p. m. Tuesday.

The father and his sons took shelter under a large tree at the edge of the field to wait for the storm to pass. The father, his clothing already rainsoaked, leaned against the tree.

A bolt of lightning split the tree and knocked down McKenzie and his sons.

Halverson said McKenzie's shirt and undershirt were torn completely off his body, and one shoe could not be found. The two boys picked him up and carried him a short distance to a road, where they summoned aid from Meyersdale.

A Meyersdale physician pronounced McKenzie dead of lightning shock. He also had burns and contusions of the head, face, arms, chest and legs.

Ernest and Roger were taken to Meyersdale Community Hospital, where they remained overnight for treatment and observation of shock. They were discharged yesterday.

McKenzie was born March 20, 1914 in Greenville Township, Somerset County. He was a son of Mrs. Bertha (Johnson) McKenzie, RD 3, Meyersdale, and the late William McKenzie.

Surviving, besides his two sons, are his widow, Mrs. Alverta (Meese) McKenzie; a brother, Eugene McKenzie, RD 3, Meyersdale; a half-brother, Elmer Caton, Boynton, Pa., and two sisters, Mrs. Ellis Sturtz, Meyersdale, and Mrs. Ellis Knepp, Sand Patch, RD 1.

Dial Cutover Is Scheduled On August 21

60 Seconds Allotted For Service Change

Telephone service in Cumberland will be converted from manual to dial operation on August 21, C. Walter Haschert, local manager, announced yesterday.

The cutover operation will begin at 12:05 a. m. on Sunday, August 21, and is scheduled to be completed within 60 seconds, he said.

The date for the cutover was set by Haschert, William N. Keller, wire chief, and Mrs. Helen Johnson, chief operator, following a report showing the $2,000,000 conversion program was progressing on schedule.

Haschert said the first phase of the cutover will consist of removing about 18,000 fuses to take the old manual equipment out of service.

Will Strip Fuses

The job, he said, will be done by six men within 20 seconds, and when strings are pulled to strip the fuses, all telephone service in Cumberland will be dead.

The second phase will take 10 seconds. This will consist of stripping some 7,000 plastic blocking tools from relay contacts of the dial mechanism.

The blocking tools were placed in the relays during the dial installation to keep the new equipment off the old lines.

Wires are threaded through the plastic strips so they can be removed by pulling wires to which they are attached.

Haschert said the other 30 seconds has been allotted to allow the cutover captain to verify that all of the circuits serving the old system have been taken out of service.

Numbers To Change

He said that if anyone is talking at 12:05 a. m., operators will cut in to ask them to relinquish the line while the cutover is in progress.

Immediately after the cutover, such customers can re-establish connections by dialing the person to whom they were talking, using the new PArkview number.

At the same second that Cumberland's dial centers, PArkview 2 and PArkview 4, are placed in service, number changes will become effective in four area communities.

They are Flintstone, Mt. Savage, Wellersburg, Pa., and Lonaconing, which will begin using the 2-5 number plan.

The direct distance dialing feature will also be available immediately for customers who have private or two-party lines.

Hargreaves Asks Jaycees To Back Improvements

Albert H. Hargreaves, industrial promotion director for the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, last night urged the Junior Association of Commerce, as youngmen of the community, to take the lead in solving some of the city's basic needs.

Speaking at the monthly dinner-meeting of the Jaycees at Ali Ghan Country Club, Hargreaves suggested that the Jaycees support a campaign for an adequate zoning and planning program for the entire Cumberland area, and not only for the area within the city limits.

He also advocated that the Jaycees endorse and support a full-time clean-up, paint-up, fix-up campaign for the community.

Hargreaves also pointed out that while the construction of a huge new plant here by Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company is a tremendous step forward, Cumberlanders should not become complacent in the belief that all of the city's economic problems have been solved.

Earl D. Chaney and W. V. Brabham, directors of Western Maryland Chapter of the Maryland Motor Truckers Association, spoke briefly on safety and presented the Jaycees with a check to cover expenses of the Teen-Age Road-e-o, sponsored annually by the Jaycees in the interest of encouraging safe driving by youngsters.

W. M. Wilson, chief brushmaster of the Brothers of the Brush, urged all Jaycees to join the Brotherhood. Henry Sauer submitted a report on the Bicentennial hat and wooden nickel promotion, and asked for the Jaycees' support. Raleigh Tozer, business manager of the John B. Rogers Company, outlined plans for the Bicentennial Pageant next month.

Gilbert Bohn submitted a report on the Soapbox Derby, to be held Saturday, July 16 on Pennsylvania Avenue, and announced assignments of Jaycees to handle various jobs at the derby. Bohn and L. Joseph Snyder are derby co-chairman. Albert D. Darby reported on the national Jaycee convention at Atlanta, Ga., June 20-23.

The local Jaycees went on record favoring Cincinnati as the site of the 1957 convention. The 1956 gathering will be in Kansas City.
